HOLD PUBLIC HEARING ON GAS RATES TUESDAY EVENING, OCT. 19

President Beal and Manager Stull of Gas Company Speak at Aldermanic Session—A. J. Cook Believes City Should Test Gas Meters—Attorney Merritt Wants Figures Produced.

Following the reading of the petition of the Kingston Gas and Electric Company seeking a higher gas rate Alderman Martin's resolution that a public hearing be held Tuesday evening, October 19, was adopted unanimously. The petition was printed in full in The Freeman at the time it was filed with City Clerk Doremus.

The gas company is in the same position that the trolley road was before the council granted the trolley company permission to go before the public service commission. The city holds a contract with the gas company which states that neither the ciy nor the company can apply to the public service commission to amend the contract without the consent of the other party to the contract. The trolley road, however, has been more fortunate than the gas company, as the trolley company's petition was granted two years ago about the same time the council turned down the request of the gas company which is now renewed.

President Beal and Manager C. R. Stull of the gas company were present at the session Tuesday. Alderman Warren called attention to the presence of President Beal and moved that he be extended the privilege of the floor which was granted.

Mr. Beal thanked the council for the courtesy and said that he believed from what he knew of public hearings that the objectors would be out in full force while the friends of the gas company would not turn out for the hearing, which was unfortunate. The proposition was a simple one. All the company asked was fair treatment. They were losing money at the rate of $50,000 a year in the gas department. This to a small company like his was a serious loss and how to offset it they did not know. "Our appeal," said Mr. Beal, "is for a revision of the rate." He said that he believed that the great majority of the residents of the city realized the position of the gas company, and were in favor of granting the company a square deal.

Attorney Cook's Suggestion.

Alderman Warren said that they had with them that night one of the fairest minded men in the city and the council would be pleased to hear from A. J. Cook regarding his personal experience with the gas question in the city.

Mr. Cook said that he had not expected to be called on to talk. He had been present merely to obtain permission for his friend, Frank Ferraro, to amend his bus line schedule which had been kindly granted by the council. He said that he had been talking with Alderman Warren about the gas question, and said that from his own personal experience he did not think he was consuming the amount of gas with which he was charged.

He advanced the suggestion that the city have an independent inspector of gas meters to test them and see that they work properly.

State Does Inspecting.

Manager Stull, who was also given the privilege of the floor, said that the company would be glad to have the inspector of the public service commission inspect and test Mr. Cook's meter. He called attention to the fact that some gas companies do not test meters more than once every seven years. The local company has been in the habit of testing them about once every three years.

President Beal also said a few words explaining that a gas meter was considered one of the most accurate measuring devices in the world. Both he and Mr. Stull said it was rare indeed for a meter to run fast. The majority of meters had a tendency to run slow. All meters were under state regulation and state seal and inspected by the state.

Roosa Offered Suggestion.

"I would like the gentlemen from the gas company to step into the next room," said Alderman Roosa, "and see what is the matter with our gas in the city hall."

"I have had some experience with gas," said Alderman Schick "and I find that unless you have the right fixtures you won't get the light."

President Dittus at this point recessed for two minutes so that the gas in the clerk's office could be seen. The fixtures are the old style kind that give but little illumination and Manager Stull said all that was needed was to install some modern gas mantles and there would be plenty of light.

President Beal remarked with a smile that while the gas company service might not be perfect they strove to please, and were always glad to investigate and do what they could to improve the service.

Attorney Merritt's Request.

The council then went into session and Attorney Frank Merritt of the Kingston Taxpayers' Association was given the privilege of the floor and asked the gas company to produce certain figures at the public hearing if they would. Among the figures wanted was the cost of installing gas service now and five years ago, the difference in the cost of gas fixtures in the past few years, and the amount of by-products obtained at the local gas plant.

Aldermen Want Streets Fixed.

The aldermen also laid out enough work to keep the board of public works busy the remainder of the year.

Alderman Leverich introduced a resolution that the old Newark Lime & Cement Company sewer between Catherine street and the Rondout creek be cleaned out or something else done to relieve conditions in that section of the city. This is the sewer that during heavy rain storms backs up and floods the Strand making it impossible at times for trolley cars to run through and causing merchants along that section to erect foot bridges for customers to enter and leave stores. It was referred to the board of public works.

Alderman Leverich—That cross walk on corner of Gill and Catherine streets be repaired or removed as same was in dangerous condition. To board of public works.

Alderman Parish—That an arc light be placed corner Union and Ann streets, and also arc light at corner Union and Chambers streets in place of present incandescent lights. To board of public works.

Alderman Kirchner—That board of public works repair culvert that runs across street at South Rondout ferry. To that board.

Alderman Lemister—That catch basin corner Delaware avenue and Livingston street be cleaned out and repaired. To board of public works.

Alderman Myers—That street superintendent open ditch on both sides of Boulevard before winter sets in to keep the road in passable shape. To board of public works.

Alderman Myers—That superintendent fill holes on Pine street between Franklin and St. James streets as they are very bad and dangerous. To board of public works.

Alderman Myers—That incandescent light be placed on Boulevard between Condie and Albert streets. To board of public works.

Alderman Myers—That superintendent repair sidewalk on northeast side of Greenkill avenue between South Pine street and Wilbur avenue. To board of public works.

Alderman Myers—That incandescent light be placed on Green street in front of property of Sam Carson as a man fell there last week and he investigated and found that it was a very dark place. To board of public works.

Alderman Roosa—That board of public works cut weeds on Foxhall avenue between Elmendorf street and West Shore crossing. To that board.

Alderman Roosa—That board of public works place arc light intersection of Foxhall avenue and Downs street instead of present incandescent light. To that board.

Alderman Martin—That Lafayette avenue be repaired with Willite. To board of public works.

Alderman Roosa—That board of public works have such sidewalks relaid on Broadway as may be necessary to protect the public safety. To that board.

Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere.

RUSSO-POLISH WAR TO HALT

Protocol Preliminary to Armistice Arranged and Hostilities are Expected to be Suspended by Sunday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 6.—An armistice protocol was signed by the Russo-Polish peace envoys at Riga at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night, said a Warsaw dispatch to the Daily Express today.

A general agreement was reached by the Poles and Russians on all the main points preliminary to peace negotiations.

The armistice, which will bring hostilities on the Russo-Polish battle front to an end after more than seven months of violent and continuous warfare, probably will be signed on Friday. The protocol was in the form of a preliminary agreement on both sides to accept conditions which will govern the actual truce.

It is reported from Berlin that both General Brusiloff and M. Tchitcherin, commissaire for foreign affairs in the soviet government, have gone to Riga.

If the Russo-Polish envoys carry out their present plans, fighting on the great battle line between the Lithuanian frontier and western Ukrainia, will end by Sunday.

Col. Diaz Prisoner.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, Oct. 6.—Colonel Felix Diaz, nephew of former President Porfirio Diaz, who was reported a week ago to have mysteriously disappeared, was said today to be a captive in the hands of General Sanchez, commander of the federal troops in the state of Vera Cruz.

PARENT-TEACHER CONVENTION HEARS REPORTS; DELEGATE REGISTRATION

Budget Calls For Raising of $2,000—Exhibit of Educational Posters—Addresses This Afternoon Feature of Convention.

This morning session of the State Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations was late in getting underway, it being close to 10 o'clock when the chairman, Mrs. M. C. Holley, called the meeting to order. Following the invocation by the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church, a piano duet was rendered by the Misses Margaret Healey and Ethel Nash.

The reports of the program committee and of a majority of the officers were then given. The five vice-presidents submitted brief reports of the work done by them, and the recording secretary, Mrs. Isaac Moses, reported that several meetings of the executive board had been held during the year. "Grandma" Tuttle who is 87 years young, and is historian of the association, made a plea that more local programs and newspaper clippings be sent to her for the scrap book. Mrs. David O. Mears, honorary president of the state organization, and acting vice-president of the national congress, brought the greetings of the latter body.

Mrs. Reed, the financial secretary, reported receipts of $1,481.49, while the treasurer, Mrs. Fish, reported disbursements totalling $1,535.63. The condition of the treasury was given as follows:

Cash on hand, October 1, 1919	$420.99
Receipts	1462.35
	$1883.34
Disbursements	1535.63
Balance	$347.71

In the endownment fund there are now $401.08.

There was considerable applause when it was announced this morning that Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., wife of the senior United States senator from New York, had sent her check for $35 for a life membership, attesting to her interest in child welfare.

The board of directors submitted the budget, which called for the raising of $2,200.

One of the most attractive exhibits at the convention is that of the National Child Welfare Association of New York city, showing a large number of hand painted posters used in schools, mothers' clubs, hospitals and missions in teaching the children to grow morally, physically and educationally. The exhibit is in charge of Miss Nina J. White of New York city, field secretary. There are over 200 posters dealing with hygiene. The association will shortly issue five books on child welfare work.

The morning session closed at noon with the singing of the Community Song.

PARENT-TEACHERS VERY WELCOME

Mayor, Secretary Hudson and Superintendent Michael Extend City's Greetings—Delegates Served by High School Girls and Entertained by Musicians.

As the incoming delegates to the State Parent-Teachers' Association convention gathered at the high school on Tuesday afternoon they were given a most cordial welcome and were served with afternoon tea in the lunch room of the school. The dainty cakes served with the tea in faultless manner by the girls of the home economics department under Miss Davis were delicious, and the whole affair gave a touch of cordial hospitality that seemed to be highly appreciated by the women visiting Kingston. Miss Davis and her charming and efficient girls came in for many compliments.

After the tea the young people of the Kingston High School entertained the visiting women with a pleasing musical program. Miss Marion Messinger played a piano solo, Impromptu in C Minor by Rheinold, in a really musicianly manner and was followed by Randolph Weyant, who delighted his hearers with his singing of "Mother Mac Cree." Miss Ruth Scott's reading of "The Highway Man" by Alfred Noyes, was another greatly enjoyed number. Maurice Baker proved himself truly talented as a violinist, playing the "Meditation" from Massenet's "Thais" delightfully. Another exceedingly enjoyable vocal number was "One Fleeting Hour" by Lee, sung by Frank Anderson. The program closed with another excellent piano selection, Paderewski's "Minuet," played well by Miss Ethel Nash. Several encores were given.

Formal Opening of Convention.

The formal opening of the twenty-third annual convention of the New York State Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Associations occurred at the high school auditorium on Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance of delegates and an attendance of Kingstonians that might with profit to our own community have been larger.

The Ulster Garden Club members showed their continued and continuing interest in the school children of our community, by being responsible for the floral decorations of the high school auditorium, and they were most artistic. The forefront of the stage was massed with branches of brilliant colored autumn leaves, evergreen boughs and tall grasses against which background the late autumn flowers of garden and field showed to all possible advantage of color and form. On the piano was a basket of exquisite quill dahlias and a large vase of dahlias and zinnias. The decorations called forth many exclamations of pleasure.

Another incident of the evening's very full program that seemed to afford exceptional enjoyment was the school orchestra, augmented by some outside players, friends of the high school students. This orchestra played a number of selections before the formal opening of the program, and that most acceptably, calling forth hearty applause.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Frederick M. Hosmer, first vice-president, who announced that the invocation would be pronounced by the Rev. F. W. Moot, following which Mrs. Hosmer said that she had a surprise to offer those present, in that Mrs. Saltford, who had been obliged to resign her presidency was on the platform and had consented to preside during the remainder of the evening, which called forth great applause, for Mrs. Saltford is much loved by the members of the state organization.

After expressing her delight in that she had been able to arrange to stay in Kingston for the evening meeting, Mrs. Saltford said that she felt sure that all present appreciated the friendships that had and were growing out of the mutual participation in the God-given work of the association. While forced to put aside the work officially for a time, she expressed the intention of keeping burning her interest in the work and asked that her friends occasionally think of her in the little far-away spot where the only school consisted of two very small children, one an Italian lad of six years. At this point, Mrs. Saltford was presented with a beautiful armful of roses in appreciation of the regard and affection of the organization.

Although a Poughkeepsie woman, Mrs. Saltford said she always liked to come to Kingston whose mayor she knew as a public-spirited man, interested in the progress of the city which he served, and whom she addressed.

Mayor Canfield, then briefly, felicitously and cordially welcomed the ladies of the Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers Associations to our municipality. The mayor said he was particularly glad to extend the welcome to those who stood for the higher and nobler standards of living, the mothers and teachers who have the destiny of our children in their keeping. In his official capacity, the mayor said it was his plan, so far as possible to devote one-third of the municipal funds to the benefit of the adults of the community, and two-thirds to the interests and benefits of our children, our future citizens. In addition to extending the most cordial and hearty of welcomes to our distinguished guests, the mayor urged those guests, while in our city to make a study of the history of Kingston as shown in its

COMMON COUNCIL IN FAVOR OF 7 CENT FARE FOR TROLLEY ROAD

Rather Than Abandonment of Colonial Line, and Adopt Resolution to That Effect Tuesday—Aldermen Don't Favor Reduced Theatre License Fees.

The aldermen in regular session Tuesday evening unanimously went on record in favor of a seven cent fare on the trolley roads in Kingston in preference to the abandonment of the Colonial line, adopting a resolution to that effect which had been introduced by Alderman Sherman Higgins of the Tenth ward. This action of the common council was in line with the statements made at the public service hearing at the court house recently by Mayor Canfield who gave as his opinion that the majority of the city's residents would prefer the increased trolley fare rather than see the trolley tracks torn up.

The Higgins resolution which was adopted without a murmur set forth how the council in times past had granted permission to the trolley road to petition the public service commission for a higher rate of fare by striking out the words "five cent fare" from the company's franchise with the city, and that shortly after that action of the council the fare was raised to six cents. That since then the company claims it is losing money and now had a petition pending with the public service commission to abandon part of the Colonial tracks. The resolution then closed as follows:

"Resolved, that this body, the common council of the city of Kingston, does hereby record itself as being favorable to an increased fare of seven cents as an alternative remedy, provided that this is the finding of the public service commission that the present rate of fare of such Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company is inadequate to provide the operation of its entire system properly and efficiently. Provided further, if an increased fare is established that when present abnormal conditions cease the city or any group of citizens, as provided by the public service law and railroad law of the state may make application to said commission for a modification or rescission of said order and for a reduction of said fare."

Major Vallette Gets Raise.

After disposing of the trolley road Alderman Martin called attention to a resolution he had introduced in January of this year providing for an increase in salary of Major William Vallette, chief clerk in the city assessor's office. This had been referred to a committee and had been sleeping in committee ever since. He moved that it be taken out and dusted off and adopted. The resolution, which provided that the major's pay shall be at the rate of $115 a month, was adopted, and the major under the provisions of the resolution will receive back pay from the first of the year.

Theater License Unchanged.

After the trolley resolution had been adopted, Alderman Martin arose in his seat and said that in keeping with the spirit of the times there is a downward trend in the march of prices.

"Except in trolley fares," murmured a spectator audibly.

"And the council should do all that it could to assist that downward trend and for that reason he would move to remove the dormant theater license fee ordinance from the table where it had been safely reposing since last May and take it up for action. He said that with the prices of automobiles and other products dropping he was sure that the show places of the city would reduce prices of admission if the license fee—which amounts to $125 a year—was cut down to a smaller figure.

"Have the theater managers informed you they would reduce prices if that was done?" asked Alderman Kirchner.

"No," replied Alderman Martin. "I have not seen them, but I am sure they are willing to fall in line with the trend of the times."

There were eight aldermen, however, who did not fall in with the idea and Martin's resolution was lost by a vote of 8 to 5. The eight who voted to let the ordinance sleep were Alderman Schick, Leverich, Parish, Kirchner, Kullmann, Macholdt, Higgins and Purvis. The five in favor of awaking the ordinance were Aldermen Warren, Roosa, Lemister, Myers and Martin.

DeKrom Claim Settled.

The council adopted the report of the committee on finance recommending that the claim of John C. DeKrom for injuries received by a fall on an icy sidewalk in December, 1919, near the Y. M. C. A. on Broadway, be settled for $500. A. J. Cook was attorney for Mr. DeKrom.

Mimeograph for City Hall.

Mayor Canfield sent in a communication to the council stating that the city should be supplied with a mimeograph and he knew of one for $65. The communication was referred to the supply committee.

Registration Days.

Alderman Purvis, chairman of the election committee, called the attention of the aldermen to the fact that Friday and Saturday of this week are the first two days of registration for the November election. The polling places should be supplied with heat and light, but no guard rails were needed. The other registration days were October 15 and 16.

Bills of election officials for primary day totalling $533 were ordered paid by the council.

Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere.

BURGER HEIRS CONTEST PROBATE

Former Eddyville Man Who Made Million Dollars Left Bulk of It to Two Women Unrelated to Him—Cousins Would Carry Out Other Bequests.

Objections were filed in surrogate's court at Newburgh to the probate of the will of Richard E. Burger, formerly a resident of Eddyville, by eight of the heirs through Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier, their attorneys. Mr. Burger amassed a fortune in the operation of furniture stores at Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Glens Falls and Schenectady and the estate is estimated to amount to more than a million dollars. He was not married and the nearest relatives are thirteen cousins. He made legacies of $3,000 to two of the cousins and $4,000 to two others. One of the cousins resides in Michigan and eight others are contesting the will. In and by his will there are over forty specific bequests, most of which are to various institutions, including Young Men's Christian Associations, Young Women's Christian Associations, hospitals and various homes and local chapters of the Red Cross in the said cities amounting in all to about $250,000. After these bequests he bequeaths the remainder of his property to two women, Mrs. Mary Parrott of Newburgh and Mrs. Louise Green of Glens Falls, neither of whom bear any relationship to him. It was announced in behalf of the heirs who are contesting the will that if their objections should prevail and the will be not admitted to probate, in all probability they would carry out the provisions of the will in reference to the bequests made to the various organizations and institutions. Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier and Mayor Canfield appeared for the contestants, and James McPhillips, an attorney of Glens Falls, and W. T. Snider, an attorney of Newburgh, appeared for the executors. The matter was set down for trial in November.

STRONG PLEA FOR ROSENDALE ROAD

Supervisors Act Tonight on Greene's Proposal to Lay Concrete Instead of Macadam at a Added Cost to County of $8,680—Brown & Dressel Favored for Hospital Plumbing Contract.

Combined efforts on the part of State Highway Commissioner Frederick Stuart Greene, the village of Rosendale and the Ulser county board of supervisors will result in the long-deferred and much-needed improvement of the Rosendale road, work on which was abandoned during the war with the result that conditions have been growing worse steadily until now the road is almost impassable.

The matter of changing the specifications so as to provide for concrete instead of both concrete, water-bound macadam and oil-bound macadam, and thus make completion of the road an inducement to contractors, was taken up by the board of supervisors at its special session Tuesday evening at which time the board also received the report of the committee having charge of the construction of a detached hospital building at the county poor farm at New Paltz recommending that the contract for plumbing, heating and ventilating be awarded to Brown & Dressel of his city for $8,774.

The board will meet again this evening, when both matters will come up for action.

New Esopus Supervisor.

A communication was received from Town Clerk Charles W. Card of the town of Esopus, dated September 7, announcing that Supervisor John H. Benser had resigned and that the town board had appointed Elmer Elsworth of Ulster Park in his place.

An invitation was received from Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey, secretary of the Ulster county board of child welfare, to attend the sessions of the New York State Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Association, at the Kingston High School, today, and was placed on file.

Hospital Plumbing Bids.

The committee on superintendent of the poor accounts reported the following bids for the heating and ventilating and for the general plumbing in the hospital building now under construction at the county poor farm at New Paltz:

Wieber & Walter, heating and ventilating, $4,460; plumbing, $5,467; total, $9,927.

L. F. Benson Plumbing, Heating & Contracting Company, heating and ventilating, $3,666; plumbing, $5,266; total, $8,932.

Brown & Dressel, heating and ventilating, $2,797; plumbing, $4,977; total, $8,774.

The committee reported that the aggregate of the Brown & Dressel

NEPONSET ROOFS

For Buildings of All Kinds

For sloping roofs on residences, garages, bungalows, or public buildings, Neponset Twin Shingles make as handsome and durable a roof as it is possible to find anywhere—and they are most economical.

Neponset Twin Shingles are impregnated with asphalt and heavily surfaced with crushed slate. No wonder they resist time and wear. Their natural slate-red and slate-green colors are restful and beautiful.

They will not catch fire from falling sparks. Because they are two shingles in one and self-spacing, they require less labor and less nails to lay.

W. McM. SPEER U. S. INVESTIGATOR

As Special Assistant United States Attorney General, Procures Indictment of Big Brooklyn Concerns.

William McM. Speer, formerly of Kingston, who was special assistant corporation counsel for the city of New York for the trial of Ashokan water cases during the administrations of Mayor Gaynor and Mayor Mitchell, was appointed special assistant attorney general of the United States sometime ago, and as a result of his investigations the federal grand jury in New York city on Monday found three indictments against the Brooklyn Edison Co., Inc., and two against Walter F. Wells, the company's vice-president and general manager, and Harry P. Wood, its operating engineer and coal purchasing agent, charging conspiracy and violating the Lever Act, which prohibits profiteering in necessities. Mr. Speer was assisted in his work of investigation by Assistant United States District Attorney Maxwell S. Mattuck.

The Brooklyn Edison Company, which is one of the biggest companies in Greater New York supplying electric current, is charged with having turned over its permits for priority deliveries of coal, which it obtained by reason of being a public utility corporation, to the Adelphia Coal Company and the B. J. Lynch Coal Company, which used them for bringing to New York and Brooklyn more than twice as much coal as the Edison Company needs in its business, and of selling most of it to companies other than public utility concerns, in New York and abroad. The two coal companies are included in the indictments against the officers of the Brooklyn Edison Company.

It is also charged by the federal grand jury that the Edison Company paid excessive rates for its coal bought through the two indicted coal companies, that it gave the Adelphia Company the preference, and that the Brooklyn Edison Company would buy no coal of any company without the consent of the Adelphia Company. It is charged that the Brooklyn Edison Company knowingly paid excessive rates for its coal and ignored companies which sold coal at cheaper rates than the Adelphia, and that the difference between the market rate and the rate paid by the company was divided, a representative of the Brooklyn Edison Company being one of the beneficiaries.

It is explained that it made no difference to the Brooklyn Edison Company how much it paid for its coal because its contracts with large consumers provide that the price of coal in excess of a certain stipulated amount, which is very low, shall be charged to them. It is on this point that the charge rests of violating the Lever Act, which forbids any person to "engage in any discriminatory and unfair or any deceptive or wasteful practice or device."

Frequent statements by the Public Service Commission, First District, since early last fall have referred to the alarmingly small amount of coal in the possession of public utility corporations, and fears have been expressed that unless more coal arrived the public would be deprived of electricity, gas and transportation.

The New York Times says that federal officials, cognizant of the work done by Mr. Speer and Mr. Mattuck, said that evidence was in hand showing that other public utility companies were guilty of practices similar to those charged against the Brooklyn Edison Company.

Matthew S. Sloan, president of the Brooklyn Edison Company, has issued a statement denying most of the allegations and exonerating Vice-President Wells of blame, but stating that one of the trusted employes of the company in connivance with the Lynch Coal Company used the name of the Edison Company to accomplish the shipment of coal to tidewater, but that this connivance did not cause any pecuniary loss to the company.

Place of Rest.

An inn in a remote district of Cambridgeshire, England, bears this inscription: "Five Miles From Anywhere—No Hurry."

First
Miss Shepherd sang, "In the Gloaming." The New Edison stood on the stage by her side

Then
She suddenly stopped singing. The New Edison took up her song, and continued it alone.

185 times – no difference!

Miss Betsy Lane Shepherd, famous concert soprano, has made this test 185 times. 185 public audiences, in 185 cities, have heard her compare her voice with its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. No one, out of a total of more than 100,000 listeners, has been able to tell when Miss Shepherd was singing, and when the New Edison—except by watching her lips.

4,000 similar tests of direct comparison, made by over fifty other celebrated vocalists and instrumentalists, have given this same result.

The New Edison is perfect realism achieved!

What kind of music "gets" you?

Tell us—and we'll show you how all its emotional power is RE-CREATED by the New Edison

Is it the soulful violin?—a mellow contralto?—the scintillating flute?—a sweet, soothing tenor?—that draws the quickest emotional response from you.

Let us play your favorite voice or instrument in a new kind of Realism Test. See whether you are touched by the RE-CREATED music in the same way that you are touched by the living music.

We want to show you that the New Edison RE-CREATES all the vital power in all music.

Remember what to ask for—"personal favorites" Realism Test!

The NEW EDISON
"The Phonograph with a Soul"

Perfect realism is your one vehicle to the inner joys of music which you crave.

Mr. Edison spent three million dollars in the research work which gave the New Edison perfect realism. He did this in order that the phonograph might transcend its former limitations and (here we quote Mr. Edison's own words), "bring into every American home, music so realistic and so perfect in its rendition as to be an unending source of benefit and pleasure."

The instruments which proved this perfect realism in Miss Shepherd's 185 tests were all exact duplicates of the original Official Laboratory Model on which Mr. Edison spent his three million dollars. You can also have an exact duplicate of this three million dollar original. We have it in our store, and guarantee it to be capable of sustaining the same test of direct comparison.

Important Practical Detail
Our Budget Plan brings your New Edison for immediate enjoyment, without asking for immediate payment. Ask about it when you come in to hear the "Personal Favorites" Realism Test.

LAWS OF NEW YORK.—By Authority.

CHAP. 925

§ 1254. Inquiry by court upon return. But a court or judge, upon the return of a writ issued as prescribed in this article, shall not inquire into the legality or justice of any mandate, judgment, decree or final order, specified in the last section but one except as therein stated.

§ 1255. Proceedings on irregular commitment. If it appears that the prisoner has been legally committed for a criminal offence, or if he appears by the testimony offered with the return, or upon the hearing thereof, to be guilty of such an offence although the commitment is irregular, the court or judge before which or whom he is brought must make a final order forthwith to discharge him upon his giving bail, if the case is bailable, or, if it is not bailable, to remand him. Where bail is given pursuant to an order made as prescribed in this section, the proceedings are the same as upon the return to a writ of certiorari where it appears that the prisoner is entitled to be bailed.

§ 1256. Commitment to another officer. Where a prisoner is not entitled to his discharge and is not bailed, he must be remanded to the custody, or placed under the restraint from which he was taken, if the person, in whose custody or under whose restraint he was, is not lawfully entitled thereto; in which case, the order remanding him must commit him to the custody of the officer or person so entitled.

§ 1257. Custody of prisoner pending the proceedings. Pending the proceedings, and before a final order is made upon the return the court or judge before which or whom the prisoner is brought may either commit him to the custody of the sheriff of the county wherein the proceedings are pending or place him in such care or custody as his age and other circumstances require.

§ 1258. Notice before order for discharge made. Where it appears from the return to either writ that the prisoner is in custody by virtue of a mandate, an order for his discharge shall not be made until notice of the time when, and the place where the writ is returnable, or to which the hearing has been adjourned, as the case may be, has been either personally served, eight days previously, or given in such other manner and for such previous length of time as the court or judge prescribes, as follows:

1. Where the mandate was issued or made in a civil action or special proceeding to the person who has an interest in continuing the imprisonment or restraint, or his attorney.

2. In every other case, to the district attorney of the county within which the prisoner was detained at the time when the writ was served.

For the purpose of an appeal, the person to whom notice is given, as prescribed in the first subdivision of this section, becomes a party to the special proceeding.

§ 1259. Answer to return and proceedings thereupon. A prisoner, produced upon the return of a writ of habeas corpus, under oath may deny any material allegation of the return or make any allegation of fact showing either that his imprisonment or detention is unlawful or that he is entitled to his discharge. Thereupon the court or judge must proceed in a summary way to hear the evidence produced in support of or against the imprisonment or detention and to dispose of the prisoner as the justice of the case requires.

§ 1260. Proceedings upon sickness or infirmity of prisoner. Where the return to a writ of habeas corpus states that the prisoner is so sick or infirm that the production of him would endanger his life or health and the return is otherwise sufficient, the court or judge, if satisfied of the truth of that statement, must decide upon the return and dispose of the matter as if a writ of certiorari had been issued.

§ 1261. Certiorari instead of habeas corpus. Where an application is made for a writ of habeas corpus, as prescribed in this article, and it appears to the court or judge upon the petition and the documents annexed thereto that the cause or offence for which the party is imprisoned or detained is not bailable, a writ of certiorari may be granted instead of a writ of habeas corpus, as if the application had been made for the former writ. Upon the return to such a writ of certiorari, the court or judge before which or whom it is returnable must proceed as upon a return to a writ of habeas corpus and must hear the proofs of the parties in support of and against the return.

§ 1262. Final discharge of prisoner. If it appears that the prisoner is unlawfully imprisoned or restrained in his liberty, the court or judge must make a final order discharging him forthwith. If it appears that he is lawfully imprisoned or detained, and is not entitled to be bailed, the court or judge must make a final order dismissing the proceedings. A final order made in a proceeding brought on behalf of a person imprisoned or detained in any of the state hospitals mentioned in section forty of the insanity law, or in the Matteawan State Hospital or in the Dannemora hospital for insane convicts, shall be conclusive evidence, upon a hearing of any subsequent proceeding involving the detention of the same person, of all the facts determined by the court, unless such final order shall otherwise specify.

§ 1263. Habeas corpus after certiorari. Notwithstanding a writ of certiorari has been issued or returned, as prescribed in this article, the court or judge before which or whom it is returnable may issue a writ of habeas corpus, which, in all respects, is subject to the foregoing provisions of this article relating to the latter writ. If the court or judge refuses a writ of certiorari, or upon the return thereof refuses to discharge the prisoner, the latter may claim and is entitled to the writ of habeas corpus, as prescribed in this article.

§ 1264. Bail on certiorari. If, upon the return to a writ of certiorari, issued as prescribed in this article, it appears that the person imprisoned or detained is entitled to be bailed, the court or judge must make a final order fixing the sum in which he is to be admitted to bail, specifying the court and the term thereof at which he is required to appear, and directing his discharge upon bail being given accordingly, as required by law. If sufficient bail is immediately offered, the court or judge must take it; otherwise, bail may be given afterwards, as prescribed in this section.

Upon the production of the order, or, if it was made by a court, of a certified copy thereof, to a justice of the supreme court, or to the county judge or special county judge of the county where the prisoner is detained, the judge must take the recognizance of the prisoner, with two sureties, in the sum so fixed, conditioned for the appearance of the prisoner, as prescribed in the order. Each person offering himself as a surety must show, by his oath, to the satisfaction of the judge, that he is a householder in the county and worth twice the sum in which he is required to be bound, over and above all demands against him. It is not necessary that the prisoner should appear in person before the judge to acknowledge the recognizance; but it may be acknowledged by the prisoner, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded in the county.

§ 1265. Discharge of prisoner bailed. The judge must immediately file the recognizance with the clerk of the court before which the prisoner is bound to appear. He must also make a certificate upon the order or the certified copy thereof to the effect that it has been complied with. Upon production of the certificate, the prisoner is entitled to his discharge from imprisonment for any cause stated in the return to the certiorari.

§ 1266. Service of final order for discharge. A final order to discharge a prisoner, made as prescribed in this article, may be served in like manner as an injunction order, and when so served, it may be enforced in the same manner as a final judgment in a civil action, except where special provision for its enforcement is otherwise made in this article. Where such an order directs a discharge upon giving bail, the service thereof is not complete until service of the certificate or other proof prescribed by law, showing that bail has been given as required thereby.

§ 1267. Enforcement of order for discharge. Obedience to a final order to discharge a prisoner, made as prescribed in this article, may be enforced by the court which, or judge who, made the same, by attachment, as for a neglect to make a return to a writ of habeas corpus and with like effect. A person guilty of such disobedience forfeits to the prisoner aggrieved one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars, in addition to the damages which the latter sustains.

§ 1268. Final order; application of provisions relating to actions. The final determination of the rights of the parties is styled a final order. The provisions of this act relating to amendments, motions and intermediate orders, in an action, are applicable to similar acts in such a special proceeding, except where special provision is otherwise made therein, or where the proceeding is repugnant to the object of the state writ or the mode of procedure thereunder.

§ 1269. Reimprisonment of prisoner after discharge. A prisoner who has been discharged by a final order made upon a writ of habeas corpus or certiorari, issued as prescribed in this article, shall not be again imprisoned, restrained, or kept in custody, for the same cause. But it is not deemed to be the same cause, in either of the following cases:

1. Where he has been discharged from a commitment on a criminal charge; and is afterwards committed for the same offence, by the lawful order or other mandate of the court wherein he was bound by recognizance to appear or in which he has been indicted or convicted for the same offence.

2. Where he has been discharged in a criminal cause for defect of proof or for a material defect in the commitment; and is afterwards arrested on sufficient proof, and committed by a lawful mandate for the same offence.

3. Where he has been discharged, in a civil action or special proceeding, for an illegality in the judgment, final order or other mandate, as prescribed in this article; and is afterwards imprisoned by virtue of a lawful judgment, final order or other mandate, for the same cause of action.

4. Where he has been discharged, in a civil action or special proceeding, from imprisonment by virtue of an order of arrest; and is afterwards taken in execution or other final process, in the same action or special proceeding, or arrested in another action or special proceeding, after the first was discontinued.

If a court or judge, or any other person, in the execution of a judgment, order or other mandate, or otherwise, knowingly violates, causes to be violated, or assists in the violation of this section, he, or if the act or omission was that of a court, each member of the court assenting thereto, forfeits to the prisoner aggrieved one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars. He is also guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by both, in the discretion of the court.

§ 1270. Concealing prisoner to avoid writ. Any one having in his custody, or under his power, a person entitled to a writ of habeas corpus or a writ of certiorari, as prescribed in this article, or a person for whose relief a writ of habeas corpus or a writ of certiorari has been duly issued, as prescribed in this article, who, with intent to elude the service of the writ or to avoid the effect thereof, transfers the prisoner to the custody, or places him under the power or control of another, or conceals him, or changes the place of his confinement, is guilty of a misdemeanor; and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished as specified in the last section.

A person who knowingly assists in the violation of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished as specified in the last section.

§ 1271. Warrant to bring up prisoner before writ issued. Where it appears, by proof satisfactory to a court or judge authorized to grant either writ, that a person is held in unlawful confinement or custody, and that there is good reason to believe that he will be carried out of the state, or suffer irreparable injury, before he can be relieved by a writ of habeas corpus or a writ of certiorari, the court or judge must issue a warrant, reciting the facts, directed to a particular sheriff, or generally to any sheriff or constable, or to a person specially designated therein, and commanding him to take, and forthwith to bring before the court or judge, the prisoner, to be dealt with according to law. If the warrant is issued by a court, it must be under the seal thereof, if by a judge, it must be under his hand.

Where the proof specified in this section is also sufficient to justify an arrest of the person having the prisoner in his custody, as for a criminal offence, committed in taking or detaining him, the warrant must also contain a direction to arrest that person for the offence.

§ 1272. Execution of warrant granted before writ. The officer or other person to whom the warrant is directed and delivered must execute it by bringing the prisoner therein named, and also, if so commanded in the warrant, the person who detains him, before the court or judge issuing it; and thereupon the person detaining the prisoner must make a return, in like manner, and the like proceedings must be taken, as if a writ of habeas corpus had been issued in the first instance.

§ 1273. Proceedings to punish offender. If the person having the prisoner in his custody is brought before the court or judge as for a criminal offence, he is entitled to be examined, and must be committed, bailed or discharged by the court or judge as in any criminal case of the same nature.

§ 1274. Appeals in cases under this article. An appeal may be taken from an order refusing to grant a writ of habeas corpus or a writ of certiorari, as prescribed in this article, or from a final order, made upon the return of such a writ, to discharge or remand a prisoner or to dismiss the proceedings. Where a final order is made to discharge a prisoner upon his giving bail, an appeal therefrom may be taken before bail is given; but where the appeal is taken by the people, the discharge of the prisoner upon bail shall not be stayed thereby. An appeal does not lie from an order of the court or judge before which or whom the writ is made returnable, except as prescribed in this section.

§ 1275. Appeal by people. An appeal from a final order discharging a prisoner committed upon a criminal accusation, or from the affirmance of such an order, may be taken in the name of the people by the attorney-general or the district attorney.

§ 1276. Bail upon appeal. Where a prisoner who stands charged, upon a criminal accusation, with a bailable offence, has perfected or intends to take an appeal from a final order dismissing the proceedings remanding him, or otherwise refusing to discharge him, made as prescribed in this article, the court or judge, upon his application, either before or after the final order, and upon such notice to the district attorney as the court or judge thinks proper, must make an order fixing the sum in which the applicant shall be admitted to bail pending the appeal; and thereupon, when his appeal is perfected, he must be admitted to bail accordingly.

§ 1277. Form of bail on appeal. The recognizance for that purpose must be conditioned that the prisoner will appear at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court to be held at a time and place designated in the order and abide by and perform the judgment or order of the appellate court. It must be taken and approved by a justice of the supreme court, or by the court or judge from whose order the appeal is taken, or by the county judge of the county in which the order was made. In all other respects, the proceedings are the same as prescribed in this article, where it appears, upon the return of a writ of certiorari, that the prisoner is entitled to be admitted to bail.

§ 1278. Appeal to court of appeals. Where a prisoner who stands charged with an offence, specified in the last section, has perfected an appeal to the court of appeals from a final order of the supreme court affirming an order refusing his discharge, or reversing an order granting his discharge, the court from whose order the appeal is taken, or a judge thereof, must admit him to bail upon his application, as prescribed in the last section, except that the recognizance must be conditioned to appear, at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court from which the appeal is taken, to abide by and perform the judgment or order made after the determination of the appeal.

§ 1279. Custody of prisoner pending bail. Where the sum in which a prisoner shall be admitted to bail has been fixed, as prescribed in either of the last two sections, he must remain in the custody of the sheriff of the county in which he then is, until he is admitted to bail, as therein prescribed, or, if he does not give the requisite bail, until the time to appeal has expired or the appeal is disposed of, and the further direction of the court, made thereupon.

§ 1280. Bail valid for adjourned terms. Where no order or other direction of the court, relating to the disposition of the prisoner is made at the term specified in a recognizance, given as prescribed in section twelve hundred and seventy-seven or twelve hundred and seventy-eight of this act, the matter is deemed adjourned without an order to that effect to the next term of the appellate division of the supreme court to be held in the same department, and thereafter to each successive term until such an order or direction is made. The prisoner is bound to attend at each successive term of the appellate division; and the recognizance is valid for his attendance accordingly without any notice or other formal proceedings.

CONSUMERS' GAIN IS FARMERS' LOSS

Says Head of National Council—Farmers Can't Get Money to Hold Crops Until Demand Comes and Freight Rates Also Given as Reason for Lower Prices.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Reduction in food costs between July 1 and September 1 will bring a loss of $1,782,276,350 to the producers, according to a statement issued yesterday by George P. Hampton, managing director of the Farmers' National Council.

"Our national policy is involved in this situation and it would be cowardly as well as stupid not to face the facts," said Hampton.

"America can either give up agriculture and become exclusively, or chiefly, a manufacturing and commercial nation—a condition to which each succeeding season shows we are rapidly tending—or agriculture must be put on a paying basis.

"The price farmers received per bushel for wheat fell from $2.536 to $2.187 from July 1 to September 1, while the price of corn was $1.856 and $1.557; for potatoes $3.860 and $1.849; for apples $2.87 and $1.374; for cotton 37.4 cents and 31.1 cents; for beef cattle 9.32 cents and 8.566 cents per pound respectively.

"Farmers' difficulty in securing credit to hold their crops until needed for consumption is largely responsible for the slump in prices of the crops mentioned, though increased freight rates are also an important factor."

Schoonmaker was received and accepted with regret. A resolution was read and ordered spread upon the minutes setting forth appreciation of the chapter for the work accomplished by Mr Schoonmaker while president of the chapter and the deep regret the chapter felt at his resignation as head of the local organization.

In the absence of President Schoonmaker, Vice-Chairman Van Slyke presided and the meeting was attended by a number of local workers.

The matter of the coming roll call which will be held November 11th to 14th, was discussed and the Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck was designated as chairman of the campaign with power to appoint committees to aid him in the city and county.

No action was taken to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Schoonmaker, it being decided that as the annual election of officers would be held in November it would be unnecessary to name a president before that time.

FIRST CHARITY DANCE OCT. 15TH

The first charity dance of the season will be held October 15 at the armory. It will be for the benefit of the dependent children of the county, who are looked after by the State Charities Aid Society.

The local branch of this society is at present entirely without funds, and money must be raised to carry on this most important work.

There is probably nothing which so appeals to the heart as a little child in want. Little ones in France, in Armenia, in Belgium touch our sympathies and draw our support. Are not these children at our own door even nearer to our hearts and pocketbooks.

Miss Helen Westbrook is arranging this dance, and aims to make it popular in every sense of the word. A popular price of admission one dollar, includes some delightful specialities to be announced later.

An orchestra of twelve pieces will play such music as makes the most reluctant feet long to dance.

The giving of five dollars makes one a "patron." Not the buying of five tickets as usual in these affairs, but the voluntary gift of five dollars for three tickets.

To be a patron of this dance means that you wish to help the dependent children of this county by giving a little more than is required merely to pay your admission. The patron list for this dance is not then a list of mere ticket buyers. It is a list of the philanthropic people of Kingston who rally to the support of this worthy cause.

How It Sounded to Him.

At a big railway station a four-year-old youngster wonderingly watched the man step out on the balcony and call the stations of the outgoing train through a megaphone. When the announcer finished and returned his seat the youngster pulled at his mother's hand. "Oh, mamma," he said, "ask the man to sing another song!"

AT THE THEATRES.

Clara Kimball Young, Blackwell and Clayton and the Bathing Girls.

Amusement lovers have an excellent opportunity to pick their pleasure tonight. All three theatres have an extraordinary good attractions and many theatregoers will choose two out of the three to make sure they have their fill of fun. Clara Kimball Young in "Eyes of Youth," at Keeney's tonight, is supported by a cast headed by Milton Sills. The story is based on the opportunity given the heroine to read her own future through the assistance of a Yogi. Tomorrow Jack Pickford in "In Wrong," is an old-fashioned story of days when we were young, the little old red school house, the old swimmin' hole and our puppy love affairs all true to life and our boyhood scraps and pranks.

Carlyle Blackwell and Ethel Clayton in "A Woman's Way," is the attraction at the Auditorium tonight. Tomorrow Julian Eltinge in "The Adventurer."

The baby captures the hearts of Kingston theatregoers in "Up in Mary's Attic" at the Opera House showing for the last time tonight, with the famous Bathing Beauties. There are blondes, brunettes, auburn-haired mermaids and almost any variety, all can sing and dance and are a dream of loveliness.

"Lightnin'," the comedy in which people laugh with and not at the characters, will be shown at the Opera House Thursday night. Milton Nobles as "Lightnin'" does a beautiful piece of acting and the rest of the cast ably support him. It is one of the most lovable and wholesome plays that has appeared this year.

BUS LINE HEARING

To be Held Here at Noon, October 22, on Two Petitions.

Public hearings will be held at the court house in the city of Kingston before the state public service commission at 12 o'clock, noon, on October 22, on the joint application of George A. Lotz and William Graham for a certificate for the operation of a stage route by auto busses between the village of Saugerties and the city of Kingston. Also on an application by Corna M. Vaucannon for a certificate to operate a stage line by auto busses between Newburgh and the village of Cornwall, and in the city of Newburgh.

You Must Believe This.

Perhaps the most remarkable freaks of lightning was that related by John Still, the famous bishop of Wells. A storm broke over Wells cathedral during a service. Afterward the bishop, his wife and many members of the congregation found themselves marked with a cross on various parts of the body. Not a soul was injured by the lightning.

How to make your bedroom floors cool in Summer and warm in Winter

Blabon Art Floors of linoleum make cool, clean, smooth, summery floor surfaces in warm weather. They are attractive, quiet and comfortable to the tread, and easy to keep clean.

In Winter with rugs over your Blabon floors you will find them much warmer than wood—because they are practically crackless, they are more receptive than wood to the heat in the room and when properly laid they resist cold.

Our floor covering department is rich these days in lovely Summer floor coverings for the home, the summer cottage, the club—and wherever there are floors to be covered. Sturdy materials, charming designs and colors—and prices for every purse.

THE EDUCATED MAN.

That real education is much more than mere book learning has been contended before, but it was left for Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler to omit book learning from his prime essentials except so far as it is involved in the first one he mentions—"correctness and precision in the use of the mother tongue" which can be "gained only from association with good English." In addition Dr. Butler's "educated man" shows (2) "those refined and gentle manners which are the expressions of fixed habits of thought and conduct;" (3) sound standards of feeling and appreciation; (4) the power of reflection; (5) the power of growth; (6) the ability to act efficiently without nervous agitation.

Obviously Dr Butler is describing neither the average man with a college degree nor the hard student of after years whose mind is packed with facts of science. His statement of essentials would rule out an enormous number of the supposedly educated, for preoccupied scholars as a class are not conspicuous for good manners. His "educated man" is not only trained mentally but morally and carefully schooled in the refinements of life. He seems to be describing the "gentleman"—an elusive as well as an elastic term—rather more than the man of book learning. But that education in its broader and fully comprehensive sense should include all his essentials there can be no question. True education is a thing of the heart as well as of the head.

IMPORTING DISEASES.

There are many Easterners who, at a supposedly safe distance, decline to sympathize with the Pacific coast's prejudice against Asiatic immigration, but everybody in all sections will unhesitatingly support needed measures to keep out Asiatic and European diseases of the more deadly sort. In a San Francisco dispatch Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., quotes Surgeon General Cummings, chief of the United States Public Health Service in that city, as saying there is no little danger that we may import from Middle Europe the deadly contagious diseases now prevalent there. "Seven million people," he says, "are trying to get here from that part of Europe which is at present a hotbed of typhus and yellow fever." He says further that "the bubonic plague is present in all Mediterranean ports, and I hear there have been twenty cases in Paris."

Although representatives of the Federal Government are boarding and fumigating incoming foreign vessels, General Cummings believes that "Europe's plague will obtain a foothold here ere many months go by, unless we keep close watch upon all immigrants newly arrived," and he begs the cooperation of the people of all communities in reporting promptly suspicious cases. Though the danger may be exaggerated, it is much better to err on the side of extraordinary precaution than to be caught napping.

* * *

The work that is being done from coast to coast to elect Harding and Coolidge proves that the people are awake to their own best interests and that they are taking no chances of defeat by taking things for granted. The people who want good government are a unit in their efforts to elect the Republican standard bearers, and with the energy that is being used there is no doubt as to the outcome. The best part of it all, however, is that the people by their zeal are proving that they believe that to win they must work. There have been occasions when over confidence lost an election but that will not be the case in 1920 for the people are up and doing and they have but one thought and that is America first.

* * *

The gist of President Wilson's appeal of Sunday is a plea for the people to "vindicate the nation's honor" by commanding that the treaty and league covenant as evolved at Versailles be ratified by the United States. These documents are no creatures of the American people, but of Mr. Wilson, on a self-imposed mission with Colonel House and other hand-picked associates, and if the president is unable to deliver what he promised, it is his well-known self-exaltation that is in most danger of being wounded.

DENY PARADIES VERSION.

Shalers Say Lamp Was Lighted and Horse Was Shot Tuesday Morning.

Andrew and Ernest Shaler of Ruby contradict L. Paradies's statement that the lamp on the side of the wagon was not lighted in the article about the accident on the Saugerties road on Saturday night telling of the striking of their horse and buggy by an automobile run by Mr. Paradies. They exhibited a wagon lamp badly dented which they said was on the side of the wagon and was lighted when the wagon was struck. They also state that the left front wheel and the shafts of the buggy were smashed and that the horse was hit in the side, which caused it to run away. The statement that the horse was shot Saturday night after being struck by the auto, they said, was also untrue, not being shot until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at Brigham's Glenhurst farm. Ernest Shaler had his face badly cut and his right eye so badly injured from his fall from being thrown from the buggy that it is feared he will lose the sight from it. Andrew Shaler had his hip badly bruised from his striking on the road when thrown out.

Shark by No Means Valueless.

From the hide of a 500-pound shark it is possible to obtain ten square feet of leather, and the stomach furnishes a raw material which can be made into leather with the appearance and texture of glazed kid, according to New York Evening Post. The liver will yield anywhere from 10 to [illegible] gallons of oil and the dorsal fin, dried, will bring about $2.00 among Oriental epicures.

MANY DEMOCRATS JOIN HARDING

Rhinelander Waldo, president of the Harding Democratic League, stated today, that the drift of Democrats from Cox to Harding has become so strong that Charles F. Murphy, leader in New York, Thomas Taggart, leader in Indiana, and George Brennan, leader in Illinois, are faced with open revolt among their followers.

"The country knows that Bosses Murphy, Taggart and Brennan dominated the San Francisco convention, and forced the nomination of Cox," said Colonel Waldo, who is a veteran of the Spanish-American war, the Filipino insurrection and the world war. "In New York Murphy, even with the boasted unity of Tammany Hall, is unable to hold the Democrats in line. Democratic office holders under Governor Smith and Mayor Hylan of New York city, are out for Harding, and are members of the league. Captain Lawrence Meehan, secretary of the armory board of Greater New York, has joined the Harding Democratic League and become active on the executive committee. Lieut.-Colonel W. E. Downs of the Twelfth Regiment, New York National Guard, has also joined the league and is a member of the executive committee.

"Out in Indiana Boss Taggart has lost Charles C. Pettijohn, for eighteen years secretary of Taggart's Democratic organization in Marion county, which includes all Indianapolis. Pettijohn has big business interests in Indiana and New York. He was the attorney who successfully defended Taggart and Mayor Joseph E. Bell of Indianapolis in the famous election cases five years ago. At present he is chairman of the legislative committee of the National Association of the Moving Picture Industry of America. Mr. Pettijohn has broken with Taggart's Democratic machine and joined the executive committee of the Harding Democratic League. Moreover he is working for Harding in New York as well as in Indiana, his home state. His New York city office is in No. 729 Seventh avenue.

"In Illinois Stephen A. Malato and Dr Camillo Volini are heading a revolt against Brennan and the Democratic national ticket. Mr. Malato and Dr. Volini came to New York last week for conferences and have returned to Chicago to wage war on Brennan and rally disaffected Democrats for Harding. They have headquarters in the Reafer Block, Chicago, and promise a heavy enrollment of voters in the Illinois branch of the Harding Democratic League."

LONGYEAR BUS VIOLATES LAW

At Least Aldermen Think So as Woodstock Bus Line Owner Neglects to Get City's Permission to Operate and Aldermen Want to Know Why Police Don't Make an Arrest.

It was brought out at the regular meeting of the common council that Stanley B. Longyear who operates the Woodstock bus line had ignored the city ordinance requiring him to obtain permission from the city to operate a bus line over the city streets, and the question was raised by the aldermen as to why the police department was negligent in failing to arrest Longyear and make an example of him.

The question arose when Aderman Macholdt wanted to have the city clerk explain what had become of his resolution requiring Longyear to comply with the city ordinance which had been adopted last August. The alderman could not see why something had not been done in the matter as it had been hanging fire long enough. The police should get busy and make an arrest immediately. Longyear he said was running all over the city, and was practically telling the city authorities to "kiss his foot."

Alderman Martin said he was of the same opinion as Aderman Macholdt and it was time something was done in the matter. If Longyear was not brought up roundly it would mean that other bus owners would fall in line with him. The others were complying with the law and Longyear was no better than any other man. He also wondered why the police department had not taken any action in the matter.

What Police Had Done.

City Clerk Doremus said that the matter was in the hands of the law department of the city, and that they had not been ready as yet to make a report. He said that the police had taken the matter up with Longyear, and read a copy of a letter sent Longyear by Chief of Police J. Allan Wood and in which the police chief called Longyear's attention to the fact that he was violating the city ordinances and advising him to get busy and file a petition with the common council for a license to operate over the city streets.

City Clerk Doremus said that since that letter was sent Longyear the latter had been summoned before Corporation Counsel Brinnier and asked to explain his reasons for failing to apply as required by the city ordinance.

Alderman Martin believed that Longyear should be stopped from running at once, and Alderman Macholdt offered a resolution that the police stop him from running Wednesday.

Why Action Is Delayed.

Alderman Roosa said that the matter seemed to be up to the corporation counsel and he did not see the necessity of the Macholdt resolution as it took time for the law to move.

City Clerk Doremus explained that the real reason for the delay was that the city law department was awaiting an interpretation as to just what a common carrier was.

Alderman Macholdt withdrew his resolution.

Just To Scare Folks.

The report of City Engineer Codwise on the Tannery Brook published in The Freeman some time ago was called to the attention of the common council by the city clerk but not read as the aldermen had read it in The Freeman at the time it was made.

Alderman Martin said it was evident that Mr. Codwise must have figured on building a twenty foot culvert over the Tannery Brook judging by his figures of cost totaling over $65,000. He said that in his opinion the report had just been gotten up by the city engineer to scare folks, but it simply meant that he would ask for another survey and report later in the matter. He was far from satisfied with the Codwise report and said he would offer a resolution later.

Frank Ferraro was granted permission to revise his bus schedule running from Saugerties through Glasco to Flatbush to Kingston on motion of Alderman Schick.

Later in the session a complaint against Ferraro was read in which it was stated he had neglected to operate his bus on the streets specified in his petition that had been granted. City Clerk Doremus said that since the complaint was received the matter had been investigated by the police and settled satisfactorily.

Fuel bills cut down

Money and comfort saved—you can do it

DEMONSTRATION NEXT WEEK

You'd kick a thief out of your house in short order. What about a heating system that steals money and comfort from you, that keeps your home cold and runs up unreasonable and unnecessary bills?

There's no need of having a cold house and big fuel bills. You can cut down your fuel bills from one-third to one-half. And even on coldest winter days your house can have that good, warm comfort that feels just like warm sunlight does on the back of your neck on a chilly spring day.

We can actually show you how you can have better heating for less money, and how an Andes System One Pipe Furnace can be installed in your house in just one day.

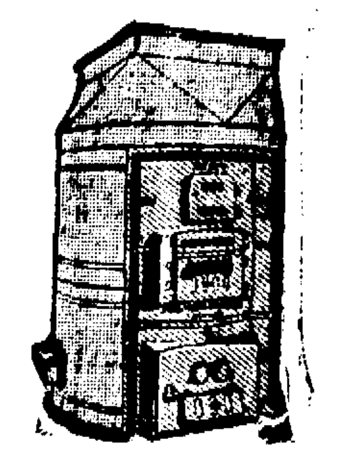
Don't miss demonstration next week

We are going to give the best part of our time next week to introduce this wonderful money-saving Andes System One Pipe Furnace. We would like to demonstrate it to you. It represents the most modern method of heating—a method which has entirely changed our ideas of the cost of heating, both first cost and cost of operation.

Your opportunity

Don't miss this opportunity. Let us show you this new Andes System One Pipe Furnace. During this coming week we are making a special effort to explain clearly and carefully just how it guards your family's health; just how it can be installed at practically no cost in only one day; just how it brings a big, generous amount of extra comfort; just how it saves fuel money every day you use it.

Don't forget that winter is coming again with the same old winter troubles which wreck the usefulness of ordinary heating systems. Don't be caught again. This is your chance to prevent it. We guarantee the Andes, anyway, and just coming in to see it doesn't mean that you have to buy.



The Andes System One Pipe Furnace is the most modern method of heating. It's simplest and best because it can be installed in a single day and because it cuts down fuel bills from one-third to one-half. Best of all, it gives that comfortable heat you always wanted. The price ranges according to size from $200 up. See this furnace next week at our demonstration.

Our guarantee

If your Andes One Pipe Furnace is not perfectly satisfactory, it will be taken out and the full purchase price refunded.

FREE

We will give away absolutely free (value $6.00) with every Andes System One Pipe Furnace sold during this special demonstration next week only, an Auclo Furnace Clock which automatically opens the drafts and heats up the house just before you get up in the morning.

SUSSEX FOLKS CAME FROM HERE

Senator H. T. Kays Gave Interesting Explanation of Settling of Sussex County, New Jersey, at the Seventeenth Annual Session of Historical Society.

Senator Henry T. Kays of New Jersey gave an interesting account of how Sussex county, New Jersey, came to be settled, in a paper prepared and read at the seventeenth annual meeting of the Sussex County Historical Society, in which he said that the permanent settlers of that county came from around Kingston, and explained why they left Kingston to settle in New Jersey. The part of the senator's paper covering that point follows:

"The settlement of every new country follows the lines of least resistance, so to speak, and the founding of Sussex county was no exception to that rule. The construction of the first permanent road of any considerable length in America passed through Sussex county. This road was known afterward as the 'Old Mine Road' and offered an easy means of access to that part of the country lying along the Delaware river.

"The permanent settlers of the county came here from the east, around Kingston, New York, and following the old Mine Road through the Mamakating valley reached the upper valley of the Delaware. They were Hollanders and French Huguenots. There is little doubt that upon their arrival they found, already in the Delaware valley, here and there, an occasional settler. The dates of these immigrations are difficult to fix. However, the decree rescinding the Edict of Nantes was passed in 1685 which sent a considerable number of these settlers of the Hudson to America. Upon their first arrival here they pushed up the Hudson river and when they found the fertile fields about Kingston taken up by those who had preceded them they looked further for unoccupied lands. Learning, from the ore carters from the old mine road of the fertile fields and streams along the Delaware river, they pushed westward to that country along the old Mine Road. This road had been abandoned for the purpose of carting ore some years before their arrival, when the English obtained control of this state about 1664. The road was 100 miles long and was built by a Holland Mining company prior to 1664.

"This road extended from the copper mines at Pahaquarry, near the Delaware Water Gap up the river and across to Kingston, New York, on the Hudson. It ran nearly the whole length of Walpack township, which, at that time, included all the territory between the Blue Mountains and the Delaware and the New York state line and the Water Gap. When the English obtained control of the state the Holland Company gave up its mining operations and most of the operators left the country. A very few, however, settled along the river and became farmers."

The rest of the paper gives an interesting history of the county from that time until the present.

Preparations are being made for the opening of the Lake Mohonk School, which was inaugurated last year. The school this year will not be housed in be building used last season, but in the Grove building, next to the dining room. About a dozen regular day students are already at Mohonk, as is most of the faculty.

The Mohonk school is connected with the Mohonk House in name and sympathy only. The school is separately managed and separately financed. As regards its quarters in the house it is on a guest footing, renting its rooms and equipment until the school building is completed. Jerome F. Kidder is head master of the school.

Where Icebergs Originate.

The source of practically all the icebergs of the arctic and sub-arctic regions is Greenland. Owing to the northward set of the West Greenland currents the bergs of this side are carried first to the north and it is only at about the seventy-fourth or seventy-fifth parallel of latitude that they begin to make their way westward to come down on the Atlantic side.

historic public buildings both sacred and secular.

At this point the program was delightfully varied by the singing of the High School Male Quartet, which deserved sincerest commendation for their pleasing rendition of "Cottage on the Hill," and the humorous encore. These young men have excellent voices which are exceptionally harmonious.

The next speaker to be introduced by Mrs. Saltford was Sidney D. M. Hudson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who extended the greetings of that body. Mr. Hudson found it a pleasure and inspiration to be present as representing the Chamber of Commerce particularly because the work of his organization and that of the Parent-Teachers' Associations were similar though approached along different lines. No longer counted solely as a commercial organization, it had been well said in our city recently that our Chambers of Commerce might rather be called Chambers of Citizens. Committees of the Whole for the Good of All. Nor was the work and interest of the Chamber of Commerce confined to the adult; it included the child, as it must to be really for the good of the whole city. Today our citizens are taking active interest in the official government of their communities, and Secretary Hudson warmly commended this idea of working with city officials 365 days in the year for the betterment of any community, instead of on election day alone. In the work of collecting educational information which is being carried on as never before, the speaker said the Parent-Teachers' Associations could indeed cooperate with the C. of C. to great advantage, in the solving of our educational problems. In closing Mr. Hudson reiterated that it was a special privilege and inspiration to meet so many who had come so far because "they cared enough to come at all because of their interest in the work. He too urged the visiting of Kingston's points of historic interest and said that people who came to Kingston and looked about, came back and kept coming back, they liked it so well and finally came back to live, which warning caused a good laugh.

One of the greetings which seemed to take hold of the guests with an exceptional grip was that given by Superintendent of Schools M. J. Michael, who bespoke the welcome of the schools of Kingston.

Just to let the visitors know how glad he was of the privilege to extend that welcome, Mr. Michael said that at the very moment he was speaking, there was being held at Saratoga Springs, a meeting of the superintendents of schools of the state of New York and there was being performed one of the most beautoful acts in the history of education in the state. All superintendents in the state had so great a respect and love for their dean, Mr. Groton of Yonkers, that the happy thought had occurred to one of their number to suggest that each member of their body write a letter on a single sheet of paper, to Mr. Groton, expressing their regard and affection and also stating in what particular way he had helped the writer. These sheets of paper had been collected and bound into a book and were being presented to the dean, while he, Superintendent Michael was addressing and welcoming the men and women before him, and he willingly missed the one privilege for the gratification of the other.

Mr. Michael regretted that the visitors could spend so short a time in this old, historic town, where the first preacher in the old Dutch Church, Hermanus Blum, a man from Holland, was also the sexton of the church, the schoolmaster, and the founder of educational work in Kingston. As a member of the consistory of the First Dutch Church he invited all present to visit the church, counted by those competent to judge one of the most churchly edifices in the world. He further urged a visit to the Senate House as well as to the newest thing of interest the great Ashokan reservoir which "furnished the city of New York with something to drink."

Mr. Michael said they had been asked to give an exhibition of the school garden work in the city, but that had been found to be impossible. But he did tell of the efforts of the Ulster Garden Club and Chamber of Commerce, as a war measure, financing the school and home garden scheme. The organizations had made it possible for the board of education to have the services of a trained supervisor and last year 763 children enrolled while 584 finished the job, that is raised a crop. 40 acres of land were cultivated and the crops raised were valued at $4,000 at a cost of production of $950, showing a profit of $3,050, and many homes greatly helped out.

One hundred and ninety-eight girls had been interested in the canning of fruit and vegetables amounting to $950 value. The seeds of thrift having been thus sown, should greatly influence for the better the community of tomorrow.

As another result of the war, we are passing through a transition period in education; we are unsettled, but moving toward new educational enterprises. Mr. Michael then spoke of the new part time schools, whereby legislation has been passed requiring all children of 14, 15, 16 and 17 years who did not finish school to still attend school one day in a week. There will be no move to crowd this legislation through for this year the 14 year-old children will be compelled to take this one day a week schooling. Next year those 15 years old, etc., until in 1923 it is expected that the plan will be in full swing. Any person who hinders a child in his or her employment from attending this part time school will be liable to fine or imprisonment. In those states where this plan has been tried out, many employers, especially in the large cities urge and pay for this day's schooling for they find the boys and girls more efficient therefor. The whole object is to make better citizens, more efficient artisans, more intelligent workmen.

Mr. Michael then called attention to the exhibition of posters, the work of high school students from all over the state, to be found in room 22 on the second floor, and to the right of the entrance. This will be open for inspection, during the noon hour and after 3 o'clock, and the people of Kingston as well as their guests are urged to visit this most creditable exhibit.

Mrs. William R. Anderson, president of the Federated Council of Parent Teachers Association in the city, was particularly felicitous in her words of greeting for the Parent-Teacher Associations. After expressing a most cordial welcome, Mrs. Anderson told how the Kingston women, had for two years been looking forward with happy anticipation to the present event. Then as the time drew near, of their apprehensions lest all might not go as they would like it. But since even the weather had smiled upon the opening of the convention they had taken heart and hoped and expected that all would be as they could wish in the entertaining of their guests. Then, too, as the best answer to the skeptical questions as to "what for," "what accomplishing," etc., regarding the association, Mrs. Anderson said she and all of her associates in the work in Kingston did want their own home folks to know what a big, an influential and inspiring thing a Parent-Teacher Association convention was, and now if the public would avail themselves of the invitation so cordially extended they would have the opportunity to judge for themselves as to the worth while character of the work being accomplished. Last year, the convention had been asked to have "Vision; venture; a forward look." and Mrs. Anderson thought that the Kingston group had had vision in securing this convention for Kingston, as well as venture in their efforts to provide the necessary entertainment. As to the forward look, they were hoping the day was not far distant when every parent and every teacher would be an active, interested member of the Parent-Teacher Association of our schools.

Mrs. Saltford then introduced the new president of the state body, Mrs. Montford C. Holley, whose generosity in taking up the work she had been obliged to lay down for a time, she so greatly prized, and whose interest and capability were a sure guarantee that the work would go forward with increased efficiency. While appreciating the bigness of the job undertaken, Mrs. Holley, who has a very pleasing personality, said that she would indeed do her utmost to accomplish in her office all that Mrs. Saltford would wish for the association. Education in citizenship, good citizenship was the objective of the organization, and Mrs. Holley felt that for so great a task the utmost intelligence, sympathy and education on the part of both parents and teachers was required. She expressed the appreciation of the delegates of the warm welcome extended them by the people of Kingston and thanked them for their gracious hospitality.

On interesting and entertaining accountof the writing of the New York State Mothers' Song was then given by Prof. T. Bath Glasson, Dean of the Brooklyn College of Music, whose wife was the author of the words of the song, set to the music of the carol, "O, Little Town of Bethlehem," and then Prof. Glasson gave a short talk on music before leading the women in the singing of the song, which was graciously accepted by Mrs. Holley for the convention.

The address of the evening, which perhaps might better be called a paper, was given by Edmund B. Hilliard, superintendent of the Berkshire Industrial Farm at Canaan, N. Y., his subject being, "Spiritual Education of the Child." While the address was in many ways technical or academic, it contained the kernel of love and sympathy for the child — that understanding of soul as well as mind and body that must make of the speaker an ideal guide for delinquent boys as well as autthority on the subject on which he spoke. Speaking from his own experience with his boys, Mr. Hilliard said that having broken away from home, while they were deficient in school training they were mentally premature in their knowledge of many things which no one had been able to wisely interpret to them. Yet, out of this very experience they had an adultness of mind, were accustomed to mental athletics that made them open to influences which could not reach the boy hemmed in by parental and school prohibitions. They had learned freedom of choice and as that lesson was being learned unless there were a parallel spiritual awakening there would be trouble ahead.

To make a well rounded man, spiritual training could not be set aside as a special department of education, it must permeate all other departments to be worth while. Since education is a matter of influence, it therefore behooved both parents and teachers, according to the speaker, to see that throughout their training of the child their own spiritual influence was what it should be. The master of men had said: "God is a spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and truth." According to the speaker, the child must be respected in his thinking. When ready he will then come asking for help in the solving of the spiritual problems that puzzle him. The child also has curiosity and in order to learn the answer to the questions arising in his mind, he will come to an older friend, and such comradeships then become the rich soil for genuine youthful and adult friendships.

There must be faith, too, in the sincerity of the child's spiritual judgment and he must be allowed to feel that he has freedom of thought as well as action, with every form of his life engaged and co-related, for the childish energy demands "something doing," all the time, in spirit as well as body. Nothing will better develop the spiritual side of the child than the enlisting of his volunteer services in helpful deeds for others. He may be taught to enjoy "work, if taught that if he will honor work, his work will honor him.

As for religious training that will come most acceptably when some childish fault has been admitted and regretted and the desire to be put right with the world, leads the child to ask for this spiritual aid. The prayer which he did not know how to utter, will then come as most welcome from the adult friend, and the child will come into real and close relationship with his, his own God.

Dr. Hilliard closed his address with Wadsworth's marvelous apostrophe to the child, and the words of the greatest spiritual teacher of all time, Jesus Christ who said, "Unless ye become as little children ye cannot enter the Kingdom of Heaven."

Just before the close of the session, Mrs. Holley said she wanted those present to have just a few words of greeting from two of their most highly regarded officers, and she asked Mrs. David O. Mears, honorary president to speak to them, which she did most graciously and impressively. Then Mrs. Edward A. Tuttle of New York city, historian of the association, with the youthful sun of 87 summers still shining on her silvered hair, extended her greetings and happily said that the beautiful wrist watch which the convention presented her at the Gloversville meeting last year was keeping excellent time, and she herself was keeping time with it. She further expressed the hope that she might be spared to enjoy more of the inspiring conventions which she fully intended to attend if she was so permitted. She was given as warm a welcome as she had extended to the convention.

AFTER SMITH ON ENFORCEMENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 6.—Having "smoked out" Governor Alfred E. Smith into admitting that he is supporting the Wilson League of Nations, George A. Glynn, chairman of the Republican state committee, today said that the Republican party would now endeavor to get from the governor a statement as to where he stood in regards to the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"The second week of the speaking campaign," said Mr. Glynn, "finds the Republican party enthusiastic for the state ticket as well as the national. During the first week of his campaign, Judge Miller, candidate for governor, met all of the county chairmen of the state and formed an intimate acquaintance with the 15,000 men and women who are elected to safeguard the Republican interests in this state. The most significant augury for success is shown that the 15,000 party workers are all in accord and working indefatigably to insure success on November 2nd.

"We are happy that in the first week of the campaign we have tied Governor Smith to the Wilson League of Nations and also for Cox and Roosevelt. This means he will do all he can against Senator Harding. The Republican organization is interested and endeavoring to elect Harding, Miller, Wadsworth and all of the state ticket. That Democrats are coming over to support the entire Republican ticket is shown in the increasing demand that we have for the party emblem. They come to us and say they are not for one individual candidate, but for the entire ticket consequently, they are anxious to get the miniature elephants which have been distributed. From every part of the state comes word that Democrats of many years' affiliation are announcing they will vote both the national and state Republican tickets.

"Governor Smith having been compelled to state, after the Democratic party in this state had taken four different positions on the League of Nations, that now he is for the Wilson League, it will be interesting to know where he stands on enforcement, inasmuch as his state party has also taken four positions on the Eighteenth Amendment.

"It is of the utmost importance that all voters in cities and villages of more than five thousand inhabitants should personally register in order to vote this year. In New York city registration will be on all of this week. Outside of New York city, the registration days are October 8, 9, 15 and 16. Non personal registration days are October 9 and 16."

30 Years a Butter Expert

Now he perfects Troco flavor

All will agree that no food product is more inviting, more wholesome, more nutritious than the snowy coconut fat from which Troco is made. Coconuts are the principal food of healthy tropic races.

This new plant is equipped with every possible facility. Sanitary conditions are ideal.

Working in this perfected plant, Mr. Hoffman has full scope for his ability.

Impart the sweet, delicate butter flavor to this pure, rich nut fat and you have an ideal product.

This is what we have done in the perfection of Troco.

Introducing Mr. Hoffman

Mr. A. E. Hoffman, a butter and milk expert with 30 years' experience, has come to the Troco Company.

All during this 30 years he has made butter, judged butter and taught butter-making. He has been called upon wherever butter associations meet.

Since Troco is churned like butter, since it owes its flavor to the same culture, Mr. Hoffman's supreme skill and experience are but exerted in a wider field.

Made in new model plant

We have provided Mr. Hoffman with every possible help in his work of perfecting Troco.

We have built a splendid new plant, designed solely for the production of de luxe margarine.

NOTICE

Regarding Mr. Hoffman's services. Up to the time of his recent connection with the Troco Company, Mr. Hoffman's advice and counsel was greatly in demand by Agricultural Colleges, Dairy Schools and Associations, Educational Organizations, Women's Clubs, etc. We wish him to continue this good work and his services will still be available for this purpose, with the hearty co-operation of this company.

Made from the finest materials

All milk used in churning Troco comes from inspected herds. Snowy coconut fat, expressed from the white meat of coconuts, is imported from the Tropics.

Both milk and coconut fat are handled in the most scientific way possible. This is made possible by our unequalled facilities. The flavoring culture is perfected in the Troco laboratories by Mr. Hoffman.

Result—fancy Troco, perfected Troco, standardized Troco, which every user will thoroughly enjoy.

Pay a few cents more

Troco is the fancy brand of nut margarine. So naturally it may always cost a few cents more.

We cannot maintain such quality and meet price competition. But we can assure you of the perfection of every pound.

Ask your dealer for Troco. If he hasn't it in stock, have him order it for you. You can't buy greater sweetness or delicacy, nor higher food value, no matter what price you pay. Order Troco today.

196 CASES FOR SUPREME COURT

Webster Action Against Trolley Company And Coykendall Crossing Suit Come Before Judge Hasbrouck Monday.

There are 196 cases on the civil calendar of the supreme court, which will convene at the court house, Monday, October 11, at 2 o'clock, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck presiding. A grand jury will be in attendance. There are five preferred causes among them the action of Mary F. Webster as administratrix against the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Co. This is a negligence case in which plaintiff seeks damages for the loss of her husband, Grove Webster Jr., who was killed during the accident at the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad when a trolley car in which Mr. Webster was a passenger and a locomotive of a passenger train came together, the question of responsibility not as yet being judicially settled. This case was partly tried before Justice Nichols and a jury at a term of the supreme court, but became a mistrial because of a juror informing Justice Nichols that he had been approached by an outsider, the inference being that an attempt had been made to influence the said juror's verdict. Van Etten & Cook are the attorneys for the plaintiff. Amos Van Etten and William D. Brinnier for the defendants.

Case No. 6 on the calendar, being Edward Coykendall against The City of Kingston, is one of the greatest interest to the taxpayers of the city. This is a taxpayer's action to restrain the alleged illegal expenditure of money and grows out of the approval of the Public Service Commission to allow the construction of a subway or underground crossing of the West Shore tracks on Broadway, and allowing the city of Kingston to be assessed for all over a certain amount for lands and properties to be condemned and to be taken for use in widening Broadway. A. T. Clearwater is attorney for the plaintiff; Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier for the city.

STABBING CASE UP THURSDAY

Thursday morning a hearing will be held in the case of John Henry Bassett, the negro who slashed Joseph Charles, in a saloon quarrel Monday night. Charles has so far recovered from the effect of the wound that he was able to walk about the street Tuesday afternoon. Bassett is in the county jail, unable to furnish bail of $1,000. The charge against him is assault in the second degree. He will be represented in police court by Attorney John M. Cashin.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS

In Convention to Map Out Future Course.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Oct. 6.—The first convention of Germany's Socialistic workmen's councils, or industrial soviets, which is in session here today, will decide whether the councils shall amalgamate with the labor unions or establish a central council of their own.

The extremists desire to use the workmen's councils as a stepping stone into the Russian industrial system. All industries are now compelled by law to organize councils.

The Rev. Bruce Killed.

The Rev. Dr. William Patterson Bruce, who in 1912 was president of the general synod of the Reformed Church in America, was killed at Yonkers by an automobile truck on Tuesday. It is said he plunged in front of the truck which struck him and he died in a few minutes. Dr. Bruce was a brother of M. Linn Bruce, well known in Kingston. Recently Dr. Bruce suffered a mental breakdown.

Soviets Brand Rumors False.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 6.—"Rumors that a revolt has broken out at Petrograd and elsewhere in Russia and that Leon Trotzky, minister of war in the soviet has been wounded are both false," said a Moscow dispatch printed today by the Daily Herald. The Daily Herald is the official organ of the labor party and is sympathetic to the Russian cause.

Not Numerous, Anyway.

The quiet, secluded, inconspicuous life is not without its attractions amid the mad rush for prominence and fame, and we often wonder if, after all, those homes are not happiest where the husband and father never lost his automobile by theft, the wife and mother never underwent an operation and the children still have their tonsils.—Ohio State Journal.

India's Vast Timber Wealth.

India is a little less than half the size of the United States and possesses untold timber wealth. In only one section has there been in operation any mills sawing lumber, that being the province of Burma, while in every other part of the vast country all lumber is whipsawed by hand out of the tree in the place the tree is dropped.

Polishing Varnished Floor.

To polish a varnished floor, rub well with equal quantities of beeswax and turpentine. Another method is to take equal parts of olive oil and spirits of turpentine, wet a soft cloth with these, rub the wood hard, then rub with a dry cloth. This is also good for black walnut furniture and sewing machines.

New England Colloquialism.

A colloquialism in frequent use, not only in rural communities, but in New England generally, is "at that." It is employed to express [illegible] where none might be presumed, as "He's lazy, but a decent chap at that." "He's up and coming" is an expression familiar to every New Englander, and its meaning is synonymous with the rustic's "head up and tail over the dasher."

bid was $158 less than the aggregate of the next lowest bid, and as the committee deemed it best to have both contracts undertaken by one contractor, it recommended that the contract be awarded to Brown & Dressel.

$2,000 For Contingent Expenses.

Supervisor Sagendorf and his associate members of the committee offered a resolution to adopt the report; to levy $8,774 on the county outside the city to pay the cost of such contract and also to raise $2,000 on the county outside the city for contingent expenses, the county treasurer being authorized to borrow the aggregate sum of $10,774 and place the same to the credit of the hospital building fund. The resolution went over under the rule.

Greene's Road Recommendation.

A communication was received from the office of the state commissioner of highways in regard to the contract for the Rosendale state road, No 1,419, stating that as no proposals had been received to complete the road, it had been deemed advisable to eliminate the water-bound macadam as called for in the original plans and specifications, and substitute concrete.

The engineers' revised estimate of cost showed that the change would require an additional appropriation of $25,000, of which the state would pay $16,120, the county of Ulster would pay $8,680, and the village of Rosendale would pay for extra work $700. The communication was placed on file.

"Detour Rosendale."

Silas B. Roosa, who was president of the village of Rosendale for nine years, headed a large delegation of prominent citizens who were in attendance and to whom the privileges of the floor were extended. Mr. Roosa was the first speaker and said the citizens were present to plead for mercy. A committee of Rosendale men had visited State Highway Commissioner Greene, who had told them that if the board would appropriate the additional money required, he would at once advertise for bids and award the contract. For seven years the road had been in a horrible condition. The contractor who had begun work had torn up the hard roadbed and hauled the material to either side, leaving only the soft sand and earth in the center, into which deep ruts had been worn rapidly, becoming worse day by day, until now the road was almost impassable. The county and state were paying for macadam, and the village of Rosendale was putting up its own money for the difference in cost between macadam and concrete. The contractor had abandoned work by reason of the war, and the increased appropriation was necessary on account of the advanced cost of labor and materials. Concrete was cheaper than macadam, and if the road was completed according to original plans and specifications, its cost would be much more.

Rosendale, said Mr. Roosa, was only twenty miles from Ellenville, but in advertising the Ulster county fair, Ellenville had advertised to "detour Rosendale" and all guide books advised readers also to "detour Rosendale." If once a person went through on the present road, he felt that in the future he should "detour Rosendale" and people who lived there all the year round almost felt like detouring themselves.

Under the plans and specifications adopted, Rosendale was only getting a fourteen-foot roadway. Rosendale would like to have the matter disposed of as soon as possible because it wanted to put up to the people the question of putting in a good road from curb to curb. Rosendale, of course, was at the mercy of the board. The contractors say they would rather build an all-concrete road than part concrete and part macadam, as now called for by the plans, because the present plans will require two sets of machinery and make the job too expensive. Personally, he thought concrete was better on the hills than macadam. The latter, must be kept well oiled to remain in good condition and then it became more slippery than concrete. The roadway was forty feet wide, which would allow for a good wagon track alongside the concrete.

Shouldn't Get On Knees.

Supervisor Schermerhorn of this city said the large delegation present was merely asking the help of the board to help put Rosendale on the map and should not get on its knees to the board. Rosendale was entitled to a good road, as well as any other section of the county. Their road had been upside down for the past seven years and there was not a member of the board but knew how horrible the road conditions were.

Mr. Roosa replied that Rosendale simply wanted to get on the good roads map and off the map which showed it only as a place to detour.

Dr. C. V. Hasbrouck spoke briefly, saying that if any supervisor had passed through Rosendale lately, they knew the road was now almost impassable. Nothing had been done for five years and heavy rains in that time had practically washed out the roadway.

A Sensible Sign.

Village Clerk James F. Brown said that automobiles had been known to get through Rosendale recently, but very few of them. Between the two bridges in the village was a sign which read: Village of Rosendale. Automobiles Slow Down to 10 Miles an Hour." An automobilist who succeeded in getting to the village lately asked him what the sign meant, and Mr. Brown replied it meant just what it said. Half an hour later the stranger returned and told him, "The man who put up that sign had brains, all right. Why, you can't go over five miles an hour over that damned road. Why doesn't somebody fix it?"

"We're willing to do our part," said Mr. Brown. "What we want to know is whether you'll do yours?"

What Commissioner Greene Said.

President John Ollry of the village said he and Warren Sammons had visited State Highway Commissioner Greene, who had told them the reason the road was not finished was because under the present plans it would require two kinds of construction, with two sets of machinery. He did not think the hill was too steep for concrete. Commissioner Greene had promised to advertise promptly and award the contract if the plans were changed, and he put the matter up to the village and to the board of of supervisors.

Mr. Sammons corroborated the statement of President Ollry and said contractors had announced they would not bid on a road requiring different kinds of construction within such a short distance. The revised estimate placed the cost complete at about $114,000, but the concrete construction that was proposed was less than the cost of completing the road with macadam. Commissioner Greene had been frank to say that if the board of supervisors would approve the revised plans and specifications, he would at once advertise for bids and award the contract. Under present conditions, real estate values in Rosendale were continually depreciating.

A Story Practically Applied.

Supervisor Hasbrouck of Rosendale invited the Very Rev. Father Hickey, pastor of St Mary's Church of this city, and formerly of Rosendale, to speak. Father Hickey was attending another meeting which was being held in the court house and came to the supervisors room to visit some of his former friends at Rosendale.

Father Hickey told a story of an Irishman who was so cheerful that whenever he heard of any catastrophe, he always said, "Well, it might have been worse." A friend decided to cure him of the habit and told him he had had a dream in which Pat had died and gone to hell" Pat replied. "Well, it might have been worse." What could have been worse?" asked his friend. "Why if the dream had come true," responded the cheerful Pat. "But if they had been talking about the Rosendale road," said Father Hickey, "it would have been impossible even for Pat to have said, 'It might have been worse'"

Father Hickey said he liked to revisit Rosendale, where he had spent six happy years, but during the past summer he had gone there only twice, when he was called to funerals. That section of the county was most picturesque. The village had been blighted in its industrial life and sought prosperity by making the region attractive to summer boarders but even in this direction it was checked by the inability of people to go there easily and happily to reside there. Rosendale did not have a great industrial future but its prosperity lay in the summer boarding business. Under present conditions, this business was impossible and property values were depreciating rapidly. It was the prerogative of the board to contribute to the welfare of Rosendale, which was an important center, and thereby contribute to the prosperity of the entire county. The people of Rosendale had stood by it through all vicissitudes and would not be tempted to leave it To such a people it was the duty of the county to lend a helping hand because they have not the resources or the influences of other sections. They come to the board in absolute need and simply asked help in order that they might help themselves.

Father Hickey was loudly applauded at the close of his remarks.

Resolution Goes Over.

Supervisor Hasbrouck introduced a resolution approving the revised plans and specifications for the road and making $8,680, being the county's share of the increased cost, immediately available Inasmuch as the resolution calls for an appropriation, it went over under the rule until this evening.

Information Wanted.

Supervisor Fratsher offered a resolution requesting the county superintendent of highways to furnish the board with a statement of the unexpended balance available for construction of state and county highways and also for construction of state roads from the last fifty million dollar state appropriation for roads, which was carried.

The board adjourned until 7 o'clock this evening.

KEPT OUT OF WAR, NOW SERVES COX

Publisher's Son Escaped Military Service Through Democratic Nominee's Influence.

Young, able-bodied, rich, a strapping big fellow, who possessed all the physical equipment of an American soldier, save, evidently, heart, Robert P. Scripps was kept out of the war through Administration influences.

He was exempted.

The local draft board of Butler County, O., rejected his plea and held that there was no valid claim for his exemption and that he should surely don a uniform and shoulder arms, but Secretary of War Baker's law partner, Tom Sidlo, was employed to save the youthful slacker. Governor Cox took a hand in the case, and finally, by White House decree, he went scot free.

His multi-millionaire father, E. W. Scripps, controlling owner of the Scripps League of Newspapers and the Newspaper Enterprise Association, a powerful combination, threatened to overthrow the Administration rather than permit either of his sons to answer the call of Uncle Sam.

Administration Exempts Slacker.

Having helped to re-elect Woodrow Wilson President on the issue, "He kept us out of war," the elder Scripps demanded that his sons be kept out of war. And the Administration kept them out.

Young Robert Scripps, who had never done any real newspaper work, was given the title of Assistant to the Publisher of the Scripps League of Newspapers to create an excuse for his exemption. Finally he was ordered home from Camp Sherman by Governor Cox, after he had been in uniform for ten days.

All these facts and more of an equally astounding and discreditable character were brought out by the Kenyon Senatorial Committee, which subpoenaed young Scripps to Washington to explain his activities in the present campaign.

Now Supporting Cox.

He is today editor in chief of the Scripps League of Newspapers and the Newspaper Enterprise Association and is putting out daily pink propaganda sheets of a lurid and sensational character in support of the candidacy of Governor Cox.

Samples of these sheets were submitted to the committee, and Senator Reed, Democrat, frankly denounced the propaganda as "rot" and manifested extreme impatience and disgust with the yonug man's loose talk about a "Senate oligarchy" and criticism of the Supreme Court

Young Scripps, although he did not fight for his country in 1917-18, insisted that he was doing it all through love of country and in the "public interest," without any pay from the Democratic committee or thought of obligation for keeping him out of war.

The draft-dodging aspects of the case, as brought out at Washington, are not unlike those of young Bergdoll of Philadelphia, which resulted in a Federal prosecution for conspiracy to evade the draft.

Leon Konkel INR.

Leon Konkel, of New York city, who gave information to the police in Pittsburgh which caused the arrest of Florean Zelenska in connection with the Wall street bomb outrage. According to Konkel, Zelenska told him he had enough dynamite in New York to blow up "the whole town." Konkel notified the police and Zelenska was immediately arrested.

Conveys Idea of Meanness.

Thrifty habits of the rural New England deacon have resulted in the perversion of the noun and its use as a verb is well understood. To "deacon" a calf is to knock it in the head when born, hence, "deaconed" veal. To "deacon" strawberries, a custom more honored in the observance than in the breach, is to put the largest ones on top, and to "deacon" land is to extend one's fence to include a portion of the highway.

But What "For Short?"

Zulus have a custom of naming a child from some event that occurred at the time when the child was born. Not long ago a child at Natal was brought to the registry on a day when a strike had interrupted traffic on the railroad. He was given the name "[illegible]," meaning, "When the white men stopped the train." What do you suppose they ever called this boy "for short?"

CONDENSED CLASSICS

LITTLE DORRIT

By CHARLES DICKENS

Condensation by
Charles E. L. Wingate

"AFFERY, what girl was that in my mother's room just now?"

"Oh, she? Little Dorrit? She's nothing; she's a whim of—hers."

And thus Mrs. Flintwinch, wife of the crafty, crablike walking footman of the household, introduced to Arthur Clennam the name of the poor little seamstress of the paralytic Mrs. Clennam.

He had noted her pale, transparent face, quick in expression though not beautiful in feature, except for its soft hazel eyes. A delicately bent head, a tiny form, a shabby dress—it must needs have been very shabby to look at all so, being so neat—were Little Dorrit as she sat at work.

A strange presentiment came into Arthur's mind that, in some way, this gentle maiden was connected with his history.

For 20 years young Clennam had lived in China with his father, only to return now, puzzled over a mysterious watch which that father, in the very last moments of his life, had given to his son, murmuring faintly and indistinctly at the time: "Your mother." Naturally Arthur had assumed that it was intended for Mrs. Clennam, whom he and the world supposed to be his mother.

Inside the watch casing was an old silk paper with the initials D N F worked into it in beads. It was a message—but the young man could not fathom it and the old woman would not enlighten him. Was Little Dorrit, to whom the stony Mrs. Clennam paid such strange, unusual kindness, connected with the mystery?

They grew to see more of each other—the girl and the young man—and Arthur learned that the generous little Amy Dorrit was supporting not only her poor old father, who had been condemned to a debtor's prison, but also her pretty, frivolous sister, Fanny, and her wild, lazy brother, Tip. Under the then existing English laws they were all allowed to live with their father in that dreary prison.

Little wonder that Clennam often spoke kindly to her and that he helped the family. But love had not yet come to him—though it had to Little Dorrit. He heard the thrill in her voice, he saw the quickening bosom, and yet the remotest suspicion of the truth never dawned upon his mind.

It must be added here that Little Dorrit had innocently won the love of another man, the sentimental son of the prison turnkey, small of stature, with rather weak legs and very weak eyes, gentle but great of soul, poetical, faithful. If one were to doubt his devotion he need only read the inscription for his own tombstone, which the romantic youth had composed when Little Dorrit said "No" to him. It ran thus:

> Here Lie the Mortal Remains of
>
> JOHN CHIVERY
>
> Never Anything Worth Mentioning
> Who Died of a Broken Heart Requesting With His Last Breath
> That the Word
>
> AMY
>
> Might Be Inscribed Over His Ashes
> Which Was Done by His Afflicted
> Parents.

But, at last, the tables turned for our little heroine. A queer, kind-hearted rent collector, Pancks—a panting little steam-tug of a man, with his puffing and his pauses—had learned to value the friendship of the motherless girl, and so, having accidentally discovered that her father was the probable heir to an enormous estate, had run down the clues until finally the great wealth was turned over to old Mr. Dorrit.

Then away from the dreary prison hurried the entire family.

Yet riches brought slight pleasure to Little Dorrit. The much-changed father became ashamed of his debtor life, and with the now richly dressed sister and the gambling brother, put on many airs. The father even employed a chaperon named Mrs. General to teach Little Dorrit society manners.

"Don't say 'father,'" declared this lady, "papa is a preferable word; it gives a pretty form to the lips. 'Father' is rather vulgar, my dear. You will find it serviceable in the formation of a demeanor if you say to yourself, on entering a room filled with company, 'Papa, potatoes, poultry, prunes and prism.'"

At this juncture the wealthy Mrs. Merdle took an active part in the Dorrits' lives. The chuckle-headed son of the Merdles fell in love with Fanny, and after their marriage Mr. Dorrit put all his wealth into Mr. Merdle's schemes—for had not this wonderful Merdle, through various mysterious movements, made tremendous fortunes for himself and others?

By a strange fatality Arthur, too, was led to invest his firm's money in the famous Mr. Merdle's schemes.

And then the bubble broke. Merdle committed suicide. The Dorrits' money was gone. Arthur's firm was ruined and Arthur himself was thrown into prison—the same poor debtor's prison that had, for so long, been the home of Little Dorrit.

The days dragged wearily on.

At last Arthur, despondent and crushed, haggard from brooding and stricken with fever, one day saw, as in a vision, kneeling before him the figure of dear Little Dorrit. She had hastened to make happier the lot of the man who had helped her family in the same gloomy surroundings and whom she loved. She nursed him in his sickness. She offered him all her money to help him overcome his distress. And then, as he refused the money, he realized, for the first time that she loved him—and that he, too, loved her.

A feeling of peace comes over his mind.

The clouds begin to break.

And strange to say it is a rascally adventurer, Rigaud, a murderous jailbird with drooping nose and ascending mustache, who opens the rift still further for the sunshine. He has discovered Mrs. Clennam's secret, having stolen the strong box that Flintwinch had smuggled into Holland and in which lay a page of the will of Arthur's uncle, a page which Mrs. Clennam had concealed for years.

Rigaud visited the strange old lady. Leaning over the sofa, poised on two legs of his chair and his left elbow, coarse, insolent, rapacious, cruel, he reveals to her his knowledge.

Then, torn by the explosion of her passion, the old lady vehemently tells her own story.

She had learned, after Mr. Clennam's marriage to her (a marriage commanded by his overbearing uncle), that her husband had loved and gone through a sort of ceremony with a beautiful young singer whom Frederic Dorrit, a kind-hearted musician (the uncle of Little Dorrit), was befriending and giving an education. She had obtained the first clue from those initials in her husband's watch which she found years ago, signifying "Do Not Forget." She accused both her husband and the woman, who put the initials there.

Instantly Rigaud, seeking to blackmail the old lady, declared he had deposited with the niece, Little Amy Dorrit, then at the prison with Arthur, a packet containing the suppressed section of the will with instructions to open it at a certain hour unless reclaimed by him. What would Mrs. Clennam pay him to reclaim it?

To the astonishment of all, the paralytic old lady rises to her feet and rushes from the house to the prison; seeks Little Dorrit; calls for the packet, and then bids Amy read it, at the same time begging her to forgive the past.

"I forgive you freely," cried the generous girl.

"God bless you!" was the fervent and broken response.

And then came the good news that Arthur's firm had re-established itself and that he would be able now to leave the debtor's prison.

So they were married—but not before Little Dorrit had handed to Arthur a folded bit of legal paper asking him not to open it but to burn it in her presence.

"Is it a charm?" he asked, smilingly. "And does the charm want any words to be said?" he added as he held the paper over the flames.

"You can say (if you don't mind) 'I love you!'" answered Little Dorrit.

So he said it and the paper burned away.

With it died the secret of Arthur's birth, never to be known to him; with it, also, Little Dorrit had voluntarily destroyed the evidence of her own legacy.

And they were married with the sun shining on them through the painted figure of Our Savior on the window.

Then they went quietly down into the roaring streets, inseparable and blessed; and, as they passed along in the sunshine and shade, the noisy and the eager and the arrogant and the froward and the vain fretted, and chafed, and made their usual uproar.

From Coal Gas.

An English engineer, Ernest Bury, claims that he has succeeded in extracting ethylene alcohol from coal-oven gas on a commercial scale, says the Scientific American. The practical working of the process at the Skinningrove works, where 5,800 tons of coal are carbonized per week, reveals an average yield of 1.6 gallons of alcohol per ton of coal. The total weight of coal reduced to coke in this country during 1918 was 14,635,000 tons, so that the application of Mr. Bury's process to this quantity of coal would yield 23,416,000 gallons of alcohol, which would be available as liquid fuel. Coal treated at gas works would yield a further 27,000,000 gallons, or, taking alcohol and benzol together, 114,000,000 gallons of liquid fuel per annum could be produced from the carbonization of coal in this country toward meeting the total requirement of about 100,000,000 gallons.

R. L. BLAND,	L. E. ANDERSON,	W. H. A. COLEMAN,
Post Finance Officer.	Post Commander.	Post Adjutant.

Listing among its members a former United States army nurse who holds decorations for valor from Great Britain, France and Belgium, the London post of the American Legion is actively engaged in cementing the friendship between the two English-speaking countries. The post, which has 110 members draws its personnel from the American embassy, American consulates, the U. S Shipping Board, American Relief Administration, U. S. Army Liquidation Commission, Graves Registration Service and from a host of professions and businesses. In it are lawyers, chemists, journalists, engineers, salesmen, valets and chauffeurs, all joining in the activities of the first unit of the American Legion to be established in Europe.

Miss Alice Emerson Findley is the woman member of the post. She joined the British nursing corps shortly after war was declared in 1914, and served in London, Paris and at the front. As an American army nurse she worked through two offensives under heavy shell fire.

The London post received its charter from the American Legion on November 25, 1919. Previous to that date it had been listed as a unit of the American Legion of Europe, an organization which replaced the American War Veterans' association, which was formed in September, 1919.

L. E. Anderson is post commander, W. H. A. Coleman, post adjutant, and R. L. Bland, post finance officer. The work of decorating the 2,300 American graves in England and Ireland on Memorial day was directed by Don A. Smith of the London post.

GREETING CABLED BY D'OLIER

Legion Commander Recalls Sixth Anniversary of Great Britain's Entrance Into World War.

On the sixth anniversary of Great Britain's entrance into the World War Franklin D'Olier, national commander of the American Legion, cabled the following greeting to Field Marshal Earl Haig and Admiral Sir David Beatty:

"Honor to the statesmen who had the courage to assume the responsibility of that decision. Honor to the British millions who, with valor unsurpassed and hearts of oak, executed that decision on Britain's many fronts. When we contemplate what would have been the state of affairs in the world today had not Britain acted as she did and when she did, the trials and difficulties of the present hour, however vexatious they may seem now to be, sink into comparative insignificance.

"United States forces have had the privilege of service on land and sea under British high command. The memories of the associations of those great days will never perish. They will perpetuate themselves in our hearts and thus serve to perpetuate the indissoluble friendship of the British and American peoples."

AIM IS TO BE OF SERVICE

Theodore Roosevelt Sums Up Principles of Legion Before Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

"We are service men and service women. That is our aim—to be of service to this country."

With those words Theodore Roosevelt, son of the late ex-President Roosevelt, summed up his speech on the aims and principles of the American Legion, delivered before the Chamber of Commerce of Cleveland, O. Three things, he declared, were agreed upon in organizing the Legion. They were:

That the Legion should be a purely service organization with absolutely no distinction of rank between general and private, admiral and gob.

That the Legion must be non-partisan and must concern itself with policies, not politics.

That there must be no distinction drawn between branches of service, between those who served overseas and those who waited at home.

"The American Legion is going to be the biggest stabilizing influence in America, in these disturbed times," he said. He cited a letter from his father, written in 1918, in which the former president predicted that the danger in this country lay in the tendency to swing from extreme to extreme—from radicalism to reaction and vice versa.

To show that the Legion does not care for politics Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that the first national commander, Colonel Lindsey, was a Democrat "while I," he said, "am suspected of being a Republican."

"The United States army," he continued, "was a democratizing influence, contrary to the belief of many." He told of many instances in his regiment to show the abolition of class distinction in the service.

NO INTRODUCTION IS NEEDED

"Speak to the Buddy With the Button," Slogan Adopted by Ohio Post.

"Speak to the buddy with the button" is the appeal expressed in a resolution passed by the Franklin county council of the American Legion in Ohio. This policy has been adopted by many other posts. The resolution follows:

Whereas, during our service in the World War we greeted each other whenever we met and ate, slept, fought and shot craps together without introduction; and

Whereas, in civilian life, we are compelled to remain closer to custom;

Be it resolved, That the members of the American Legion of Franklin county, O., shall in the future regard the American Legion emblem as an open introduction between wearers of same, thereby creating a more close-knit and friendly organization.

DEVOTION ENDS AT ST. PETER'S

An occasion which St. Peter's parishioners will not easily forget was the impressive closing of the Forty Hours' Devotion last evening. It was a virile demonstration on the part of the men of the parish. Nearly two hundred and fifty men with lighted candles marched in solemn procession before the Blessed Sacrament, a powerful tribute of reverence, an unquestionable profession of faith. The entire service was most inspiring and the congregation exceeded the capacity of the church.

The musical program on this evening as well as throughout the Forty Hours, was most appropriate and well executed under the direction of Prof. John Schwalbach. At the opening of the service the choir rendered a harmonized "Sacris Solemnis," composed especially for the occasion.

Among the visiting clergy were the Rev. John B. Rork, pastor of St. Paul's Church, Coxsackie, N. Y., celebrant; the Rev. M. Gearon, C. SS. R., pastor of Presentation Church, Port Ewen, deacon; the Rev. Joseph W. Grundner, of St. Anthony's Church, Bronx, subdeacon; the Rev. John C. De Krom of Kingston, master of ceremonies; the Rev. Fathers Young, Connell and Sanderson of Esopus; the Rev. Edward Higgins, pastor of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale; the Rev. Francis A. Ostermann of St. Joseph's Church, New York city.

After the procession followed Solemn Benediction and finally the whole congregation joined in the "Te Deum" as a fitting conclusion to the Forty Hours' Devotion.

Terence, Foodless 55 Days, Is Able to Whisper to Relative Who Shipped From New York as Sailor to Avoid Possible Passport Troubles.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 6.—Terence MacSwiney, the hunger striking lord mayor of Cork, was visited in Brixton jail today by his brother, Peter, of New York, whom he had not seen in 20 years.

Peter MacSwiney appeared suddenly, unexpectedly and dramatically in London. Before his arrival it had been reported that he was on his way but belief prevailed that he had just sailed from New York and would not arrive here for a week.

The lord mayor, who is now in the fifty-fifth day of his hunger strike, expressed deep joy over the sight of his brother. He was very weak, and it was with great effort that he whispered:

"I am overjoyed to see you and hear of the sympathy of the American people."

It is understood that Peter MacSwiney came from New York on an American ship as a sailor to avoid the necessity of getting a passport.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 6.—The stock market trading was most pronounced in the railroad shares at the opening today. The speculative element again took the bear side and offered the leading issues at concessions, but there was no special supply outside of this source and before many minutes passed a number of stocks became active and strong. American Sugar Refining advanced three points to 106 and Punta Alegre moved up 2⅝ to 72½.

The market showed an irregular tone throughout the forenoon. The sugar stocks were strong, American Sugar Refining advancing to 106, while gains of around 1 point were made in the other sugar shares. The rails showed a weak tone. Texas Pacific fell 4 points to 33. Shortly before noon, the standard railway shares turned strong, Reading moving up over 1 point from the low to 95¾. Mexican Petroleum yielded 2 points to 187 and Pan-American fell over 1 point to 89¾. Steel Common yielded ⅞ to 89⅞ and Baldwin dropped 1 point to 110⅞.

SEAGER.

Seager, Oct. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould and family returned to the city last week and Forge Cottage will soon be closed for the summer.

A sum of $70 was realized for the benefit of the M. E. Church at the harvest home supper held at O. A. Todd's Friday evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Avery were pleasantly surprised on Wednesday afternoon when a good crowd of friends and neighbors knocked at their front door. The afternoon was enjoyed by all and in leaving they left their good wishes for success in their new home at Delhi.

The stone crusher which has been recently moved, is now running and men and teams under the direction of Lincoln Todd, road superintendent, are putting in another strip of stone road. They also have the large stone motor truck belonging to the county which they are using to good advantage.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Avery have moved to Delhi. Their many friends regretted to have them leave the community.

New England Folklore.

The folklore of New England is not confined to rural communities, nor to the illiterate—not by any manner of means. And it's safe to say that the reader, if a New Englander, will not protest the "any manner of means." Who in Rhode Island does not know that a "cat-nap" is a short doze or that a "whopper" is a big lie? "What are you driving at?" is as staple as baked beans on Sunday morning, and "What are you going to 'tax' me?" is a daily inquiry.—Boston Globe.

"Singing sands" are found in Hawaii. By clapping the sand between the hands a faint hooting noise is produced. But the sounds are greatly intensified by putting a quantity in a bag and slamming it about.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

FLYING BUG.

"Some people," said the flying bug, "think that bugs are little creatures crawling around without much beauty and without much sense. But they should see me, for I'm a dainty little flying bug, a pretty little brown bug. When I am not flying my wings close up, and I'm such an interesting little creature that it is hard for folks to know which is my back and which is my front."

"Of course," said the big grasshopper who looked like a butterfly when it was flying, "everyone may not think it is so fine not to be able to tell which is a creature's back and which is the front. I have an idea some wouldn't think much of that. I'm sure boys and girls, for example, wouldn't want you to take the back of their heads for their faces.

"They wouldn't want you to speak to the back of their heads and say: 'Good-day, pleasant weather we're having,' or 'Bad-day, horrible weather we're having.'

"I'm sure they wouldn't want their backs talked to in case you couldn't tell their backs from their fronts. I feel they might be insulted if you couldn't tell them apart."

"Oh, well," said the bug, "if you think they might feel that way about it, then that is a thing I cannot answer. I know people so slightly, so slightly. I have very few real friends among people.

"In fact I haven't any very intimate friends. Though I am an interesting flying bug I have but few invitations. I'm never asked to people's houses to dinner or to birthday parties, or to breakfast when they have pancakes. Not that I would care for pancakes, but I've heard some children talking in a very fine way about having pancakes for breakfast and as if breakfast were a very grand affair indeed when there were pancakes. But I haven't been asked to such parties. No, and I have never been asked to luncheons or where they had games, or to many, many things to which I could have been invited if they had chosen to ask me.

"I suppose they are only fond of each other, though I have seen dogs about and even ponies and canary birds singing when dinner parties were going on, and parrots yelling. It's just that they don't know us well, for I feel if they did know us well they couldn't help but like the little flying bug."

"You don't hate yourself, do you?" asked the big golden bumble bee. "You don't hate yourself at all."

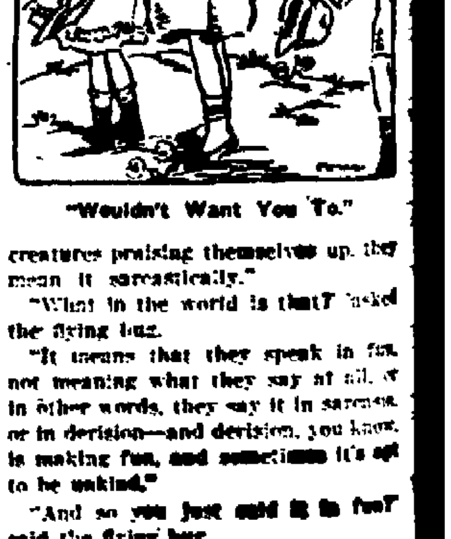
The bumble bee had a handsome brown head and the front part of his little body was brown, while two-thirds, or more than half of his back was of a beautiful golden color.

"You don't hate yourself, do you?" he repeated, buzzing and laughing to himself.

"No, I don't hate myself," said the flying bug. "Why do you ask?"

"I meant it in joke," said the bumble bee. "Of course you don't hate yourself. You are quite fond of yourself, judging from the way you talk.

"And when creatures say: 'You don't hate yourself,' when they've heard such creatures praising themselves up, they mean it sarcastically."



"Wouldn't Want You To."

"What in the world is that?" asked the flying bug.

"It means that they speak in fun, not meaning what they say at all, or in other words, they say it in sarcasm or in derision—and derision, you know, is making fun, and sometimes it's apt to be unkind."

"And so you just said it in fun?" said the flying bug.

"Just in fun," said the bumble bee, "and also in order to make fun of you a little, for you were so fond of yourself that you couldn't hate yourself. In fact, you are so fond of yourself that you can't hate yourself! But never mind, little flying bug, you're all right, and you're a part of the summer time, which is the best of all time."

"The best of all," said the flying bug, "the best of all, buzz, buzz."

"The best of all," said the grasshopper as it flew away and once more looked like a butterfly!

HOME FOR AGED "PARTY" ON OCT. 14

The Home for the Aged in Kingston is going to have a party. The old-fashioned word "party" is the only one that fits. It won't be a dance, nor a dinner, nor a fair, but just the old-fashionest sort of a donation party, where everybody comes and everybody brings something.

October 14 is the day, and (isn't this quaint?) if it rains they are going to postpone it till the next day. Nothing twentieth century about that.

If you have anything to bring with you, you are invited. A bag of potatoes over your shoulder would do, or a cake of soap in your hand, or a check for ten dollars in your pocket. Any of these will admit you. No empty-handed guests expected.

Housekeepers know what lots and lots of things are needed to keep even a small family supplied. Think of the many needs of this little institution, so young in that it has not yet been in Kingston a year, and yet so old that it carries out the age-old idea of giving a home to those who have no homes of their own. It is a development of the earliest civilization that the very young and very old should be looked after by the community.

Last winter, soon after the opening of the home, Captain Fowler gave a donation party which was a great success. The response from the people of Kingston was immediate. But that was in the month of February, which made it impossible for people outside of the city to come in and do their part.

The whole county is interested in this splendid little institution and wants to show its interest in a practical way. So it has been arranged that each town and village has a chairman and is to have its own center for the receiving of donations. These gifts from the outlying districts will be brought into Kingston later, but they must be taken to the appointed place on the fourteenth, donation day.

There are but two things that the managers of the Home do not want. Those are furniture and clothing. The houses are comfortably and completely furnished, and clothing in general is not now needed. Everything else is.

Food supplies for the winter are of course the primary need. Anything from sugar to cabbage will do—a barrel of flour for instance, would be wonderful. Canned goods of all descriptions are desired, whether you bring a basket full or just one glass of jelly. The small gifts are greatly appreciated too, for if twelve people each bring a can of corn, any school child can tell you that that makes a dozen cans of corn. If you want to come and can't think of anything to bring, bring money, that's always good.

The Home will be open on Donation Day for the inspection of visitors. There will be committees on each floor to show the guests about, and if you haven't yet been through the building, it will give you pleasure to see the comfort and convenience of its arrangement.

Come and add to it by a gift of your own. Thursday, October 14 is the day, and the party will be all the afternoon.

Newburgh Cops Want More.

The Newburgh police force have asked for a 30 per cent increase in pay from the city council of that city. The matter was referred to a hearing later when representatives of the men could be present. The salary of a Newburgh patrolman is now $1,500.

Trolley Men Dance Tonight.

The first annual dance of the local union of the trolley motormen and conductors will be held this evening in Mechanics' Hall on Henry street. Shurter's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

Grove Street Land Conveyance.

Sherwood T. Wells and wife of this city have conveyed to Robert Spindler and wife of LeFever Falls a parcel of land on Grove street in the city of Kingston.

Attending Spencer's.

Miss Ruth Trowbridge of Walden has enrolled at Spencer's Business School, Inc. for the complete shorthand and secretarial course.

Residents fled in safety when Balbriggan, in County Dublin, Ireland, was set ablaze by the police as a reprisal following the murder of two police officers there. Practically the whole of the town was reduced to ruins. Two civilians were killed by the "Black and Tan," who used rifles and hand grenades as well as the torch. Thousands were made homeless or fled fearing further reprisals. Here is a pathetic incident of the flight from the town—a little refugee kissing his daddy good-bye as he leaves with other relatives.

DODGERS STILL FULL OF FIGHT

Tuesday's Game Analyzed By Both Managers—Raw Weather Which Kept Hundreds Away, Continues Today.

(By Jack Velock)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 6.—Beaten, but far from discouraged, the Dodgers were ready to face the Indians for the second game of the world series and prepared to fight like wild cats to even up the count.

Tris Speaker's players, highly elated over their victory in the opener, were out to make it two in a row but were not looking for an easy assignment, for they have a wholesome respect for the gameness of the National League champions.

Football weather was the order again today as the rivals got ready for their second tilt. The sun came out, friendly enough, but along with it came an October breeze that made every one step lightly. The outcome of today's game means everything to the Dodgers, for, after letting Cleveland get the jump on them, they will face a discouraging task, if they lose another game on their own home grounds.

The dash and courage of the Indians and the fine fighting spirit shown by the Brooklyn players in defeat were the chief topics among confabbing fans here today.

Tris Speaker's machine lived up to its reputation as one of the smoothest and finest group of players ever gotten together and the Cleveland manager has demonstrated in striking manner why they call him the greatest outfielder in the world Coveleskie deserves a big share of credit for the fine ball he pitched, yet Covey owes Speaker an eternal debt of gratitude for the wonderful catches in deep center field that saved him a world of trouble, perhaps the victory, and broke the hearts of the Dodger fans.

The fans are talking about all these things today. They are talking about this Kid Sewell, too Sewell must have surprised himself.

The Dodgers were a noble looking outfit yesterday. They got a bad break at the very start of the game when the wind tossed Burns high fly about like a feather, but they never stopped fighting and they are more determined than ever today.

"We learned a lot about the Cleveland club yesterday," said your Uncle Wilbert this morning. "With this knowledge plus fighting spirit and a fair share of the breaks we'll start turning things around. We're not discouraged. We've just begun to fight."

Because of the chill winds that played about Ebbet Field throughout the night there was no line of fans at the ticket windows but as soon as the sun peeped forth today they began to arrive and long before noon there were hundreds in line.

The opening day crowd was not as large as had been expected, for the park was not filled to its capacity. Hundreds probably stayed away from the park in the belief that seats would be unobtainable, but they did not figure on the effect of the raw weather. Today a larger crowd was expected.

Favorites over Brooklyn before the series opened, the Indians continued to rule favorites today. No wagers of unusual size were reported, however.

HOOKER ACTIVE IN CAMPAIGN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Wappingers Falls, New York, October 6.—Elon H. Hooker, who has come out in support of Judge Miller, started his campaign with two speeches, in the afternoon before the faculty and student body of Vassar College, at Poughkeepsie, and in the evening before about two hundred business men here.

"In Judge Miller," he said, "we will have an executive who will prepare to set our house in order when the present occupants have been dispossessed by the people November 2nd next. The costs of administration of the state will be dealt with by him in the same manner that you or I would deal with our own business; that is, all expenditures made to show a definite return in value commensurate with the outlay.

"Judge Miller has the great gift of cooperation, he both gives it and inspires it. The legislature will work with him, not against him. His counsel will be sought by the other state officers and his advice will carry the weight of experience and wisdom, for he has long held positions of trust and honor in the community and brings to his leadership the trained mind of a great judge, together with a very human and genial personality which will constantly bring him friends and help over the hard places where firmness of decision would otherwise bring resentment.

"You will find an interesting presentation of the mental equipment of the two aspirants for the governorship of New York State if you will contrast the speeches of the Democratic nominee as recorded in the press with the clear, lucid, fair, sound decisions of Judge Miller, which are permanently a part of the state jurisprudence."

NEWEST BAKERY

To Open on Wall Street Friday—Baby Loaf for Visitors.

On Friday Kingston's newest enterprise, a bake-in-sight bakery, will be opened at 306½ Wall street in the store formerly occupied by E. S. Craft & Son, grocers. Extensive alterations have been made and the latest machinery necessary to carry on the business has been installed and expert bakers are here to do the baking. A complete line of bread, rolls and pastry will be made. A cordial invitation is extended by Manager Morgenstein to the people of Kingston and vicinity to visit the bakery and attend the opening as a baby loaf of bread baked in the ovens in plain sight will be given to each visitor.

A feature in the new bakery will be an improved doughnut machine in the front window which will turn out a quantity of doughnuts every 30 minutes. Fresh bread and rolls will be baked in view of the public every half hour. The operation of the machines should prove an interesting spectacle and attract those who desire nothing but the highest sanitation in the bread and cake line.

No world series would be complete without the above photograph. Just before the game started, which was won by Cleveland, 3 to 1, Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyns, and Tris Speaker, Cleveland's manager, posed before a battery of camera men. Speaker was full of smiles before the game, but when the last Dodger had been put out his white teeth gleamed brighter than ever.

THAT THE PUBLIC MAY KNOW

The Voice of the Press

Herewith are more editorials from prominent newspapers. They indicate a realization of the fact that gas companies like other industries must be accorded fair treatment if good service is to be maintained.

The Rochester (N. Y.) Post Express says:

The service of public utilities, being absolutely indispensable to the convenience and prosperity of communities, there has come to be a feeling on the part of thoughtful people that they should be given fair play and fair pay."

The Richmond (Va.) Item says:

"We must have gas for cooking in practically every part of the city. It is not a luxury. It is a necessity. If it can be shown that the only way to keep the gas plant on a safe basis is to put the rates up, it is better to pay a little extra charge for gas than to run the risk of having the whole city cut off, some day, without any gas supply. Even if cooking coal were plentiful in this city—and we all know that it isn't—most of the cooking ranges in Richmond are made to burn gas only, and couldn't use coal."

Leslie's Weekly:

"The spectacle of great enterprises tottering toward bankruptcy merely because they are not permitted to make a living charge for the service they render, may well cause widespread apprehension. It is a symptom of perverse-mindedness and a menace to prosperity."

Collier's Weekly:

"Our public and our utilities will have to pull together if either is to prosper. They will not prosper separately."

"Swan Songs."

There is an old superstition that the swan breaks into song at the approach of death. Hence the expression "swan song" is often used to refer to a last poem or musical work written just before the composer's death. The expression has also extended to apply to the last speech of a politician before being forced into obscurity.
